Eisenhower Calls For International Pool Of Atomic Materials To Save Civilization

Dynamite Blast Blamed For Interrupting Electrical Service To 500 M-E Customers

Dynamite "blew a fuse" for an estimated 500 Metropolitan Edison Co. customers at 4:10 p. m. yesterday.

Ted Henning, manager of the local Metropolitan Edison Co. plant, said service provided by his company to that many Monroe County homes was "interrupted" or "hindered" at that time.

Cause of the interruption, Henning said, was a dynamite blast set off by McKenize Construction Co. above Minisink Hills. The construction company is laying a gas line which will service this area with natural gas when it is completed.

Workers for the construction company set off a dynamite charge which blasted down a Metropolitan Edison line running between Stroudsburg and Bushkill, Henning said.

In addition to the dropped line, the electric company manager said, a "short circuit current traveled back along the remaining lines, then blew a 33,000 KVA fuse at the Stroudsburg plant."

The resulting interference caused low voltage in the Stroudsburg area, Delaware Water Gap and some parts of Cherry Valley.

Stroudsburg voltage was back to normal by 4:45 p. m. All other areas had been restored to customary service by 5:25 p. m., Henning said.

Explanation of the interference in response to numerous telephone calls complicated matters for Metropolitan Edison officials after the occurrence.

Lights at Monroe County General Hospital wavered and grew dim, officials there said, but there was no resultant interruption in service.

The hospital is given dual service by both local utility companies. Elevator service, however, was "out of order" during the supper hour.

Food trays were carried from the basement kitchen and distributed by hand.

News Strike Settled On $3.75 Boost

New York, (AP) — The worst newspaper strike in New York history ended yesterday with a fact-finding agreement engineered by the government.

A formula whereby fact-finders move in when a strike threatens was hailed as a possible pattern to insure future stability in the New York newspaper industry.

As presses thundered back to life across town, the first of the six struck papers to hit the streets were the morning tabloids, the Daily News and the Daily Mirror.

Earlier, the Herald Tribune, unstruck but on a self-imposed no-advertising diet, showed up as an 88-page paper, fat with ads, features and time copy. The Herald Tribune said the paper was a record breaker for advertising lineage.

Publishers of the city's six biggest papers accepted a compromise worked out by one of the government's crack mediators, Walter A. Maggioni. It is expected to increase publishers' costs at least 3 1/2 million dollars a year in New York.

The 400 striking photo-engravers voted to go along and withdrew pickets from the struck newspapers for the first time since the strike began Nov. 28.

The engravers agreed 198-77 to go back to work, but not until they were assured they can strike again if the fact-finders' decision on wages and other benefits does not suit them. The decision may be ready next week.

The strikers, abetted by 20,000 non-striking newspaper employees who honored their picket lines, have kept New York's biggest dailies closed more than 10 days and disrupted reading and advertising habits of millions of New Yorkers.

"It comes as a great source of relief to us," said William Magel, spokesman for the publishers. "This has been a bad situation and in a situation of this type nobody is all right and nobody is all wrong. I hope we never have it again."

The engravers get $3 a week wage increase, plus 75 cents worth of other benefits—the same package which the publishers stood on all along. However, a three-man fact finding board can recommend additional amounts, although its decision is not binding on either side.

Solons Differ On President's Speech At U.N.

Washington, (AP) — Congressional reaction to President Eisenhower's speech yesterday ranged from applause for his statesmanship to predictions that Congress might balk at authorizing an international atomic setup.

Several legislators noted that Soviet Russia has already rejected American proposals for international control of atomic production.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said in a statement:

"The President has spoken for the conscience of all men of good will."

"When the President's plan is submitted to the Congress, I hope it will receive prompt and favorable consideration."

Motorist Adds To Woes When Car Is Stolen

Portland, Maine (AP) — Mario Di Pietro, 21, only added to his troubles yesterday when he reported to police his car was stolen. They had the car, plus 30 parking tickets and a charge of failure to register the vehicle.

Di Pietro was jailed when unable to pay a $25 fine on the latter charge. When that is satisfied, some other levies will be waiting on the parking tickets and a towing charge.

Government Asks Ban On Segregation

Washington, (AP) — The Eisenhower administration called upon the Supreme Court yesterday to outlaw racial segregation in America's public schools.

It went straight down the line with the Truman administration in declaring that separate schools for Negro children, even if they are equal to those for white pupils are illegal under the Constitution.

But Virginia's attorney general, J. Lindsay Almond, told the high tribunal that it was being asked to make "a decision contrary to the spirit and intent and purpose of the 14th Amendment."

The amendment provides that no state shall deprive any citizen of due process of law or deny him equal protection under the laws.

The white-haired attorney general thundered that opposing lawyers were asking the court to amend the Constitution.

"They are asking you . . . to go farther than the Congress ever intended this court should go," he cried.

Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Lee Rankin had told the nine black-robed justices they have "the power and the duty" to rule that segregation violates the 14th Amendment.

Knowland Agrees With McCarthy

Washington, (AP) — Senate Republican leader Knowland of California yesterday agreed with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that communism in government will be an important issue in next year's congressional elections.

Without contesting President Eisenhower's views on the subject, Knowland told newsmen:

"It will be an issue with the American public because they do not want any successor administration that would have the same naive approach as the Truman administration."

Invites Nations To Put Atom To Peaceful Uses

United Nations, N. Y. (AP) — President Eisenhower yesterday proposed that all the atomic powers—Russia included—pool at least part of their atomic resources for peaceful purposes.

With a warning that the nuclear arms race threatens to wipe out civilization, the President urged that nations with atomic knowledge contribute nuclear materials to an international agency to be set up under U. N. sponsorship.

"My country's purpose is to help us move out of this dark chamber of horrors into the light," the President solemnly told the United Nations General Assembly.

He suggested that the atomic powers begin private talks immediately on such a project without waiting for the establishment of a system of inspection — one of the stumbling blocks in previous atomic discussions.

One high U. N. official hailed the Eisenhower speech as the greatest development in American foreign policy since 1946. At the least, it marked an important stage in the seven-year atomic stalemate over atomic control.

Eisenhower flew here from the Big Three conference in Bermuda, where he won British and French approval of his idea, to unfold it in the brightest spotlight of world publicity.

Before going to the U. N.'s marble rotunda for his historic address, Eisenhower stopped in the world organization's simple non-dominational meditation room to pray.

Dignitaries of 60 nations, gathered in the Assembly hall, gave the President an ovation when he finished his 20-minute speech. Even Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky joined in, although with no special show of heartiness.

Vishinsky later told reporters "it is necessary to study" the President's proposals before commenting on them.

The President first solemnly warned of the hideous terror to which the world is exposed because of the development of atomic power. He reported for the first time publicly that atomic bombs nowadays are 25 times as powerful as those which wiped out Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945.

Moreover, the President said in measured tones, the United States has reached such a stage in atomic development that these weapons "have virtually achieved conventional status within our armed services."

But, Eisenhower emphasized, "the dread secret and the fearful engines of atomic energy are not ours alone."

"In the first place, the secret is possessed by our friends and allies, Great Britain and Canada, whose scientific genius made a tremendous contribution to our original discoveries and the designs of atomic bombs."

After paying this tribute to the English-speaking Allies, who have been pressuring the United States for a mutual exchange of atomic information, Eisenhower went on in slow and solemn measures to proclaim:

"The secret is also known by the Soviet Union."

The United States, he said, had a head-start and now holds a "great quantitative advantage" over the Soviet Union. Nevertheless, he declared, the facts of modern atomic life are these:

"First, the knowledge now possessed by four nations will eventually be shared by others."

"Second, even a vast superiority in numbers of weapons, and a consequent capability of devastating retaliation, is no preventive of itself against the fearful material damage and toll of human lives that would be inflicted by surprise aggression."

Apparently to convince the listening world that the United States was not offering to make a completely new start along completely new lines for international control of atomic energy, out of fear of Russia, the President emphasized:

"Should such an atomic attack be launched against the United States, our reactions would be swift and resolute. But for me to say that the defense capabilities of the United States are such that they could inflict terrible losses upon an aggressor—for me to say that the retaliation capabilities of the United States are so great that such an aggressor's land would be laid waste—all this, while fact, is not the true expression of the purpose and the hope of the United States."

The General Assembly president, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India, received and introduced the President. She said afterward it was "a very fine speech which has in it the seeds of great opportunity for the world. I hope the statesmen of the world will give the President's address serious consideration."

This view seemed to be generally shared by delegates, who clustered together for more than an hour discussing their reactions. Reporters did not hear an unfavorable word.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb hailed the speech as a "noble and moving statement." The British delegation officially called the speech "a new and constructive proposal of great potential importance which, with good will, might result in a new approach being made to the problem of atomic energy."

Presidential Press Secretary James Hagerty told reporters in Bermuda Sunday that Prime Minister Churchill's atomic expert, Lord Cherwell, had helped American Atomic Energy Commission chief Lewis W. Strauss draft it.

After clearly and simply setting forth the atomic quandary in which the world finds itself—sometimes in language which bore a Churchillian cast—Eisenhower went on to detail his new plan.

He recalled that the General Assembly had recommended that the U. N. Disarmament Commission study appointment of a subcommittee to seek an acceptable solution on atomic control. Members probably would be the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada.

The United States, Eisenhower declared, is prepared on instant notice to meet with these countries in "private conversations" to find an acceptable solution to the atomic armaments race. But, he added: "We shall carry into these private talks a new conception."

"The United States would seek more than the mere reduction or elimination of atomic materials available for military purposes."

"It is not enough just to take this weapon out of the hands of the soldiers. It must be put into the hands of those who will know how to strip its military casing and adapt it to the arts of peace."

"I therefore make the following proposal: 'The governments principally involved, to the extent permitted by elementary prudence, to begin now and continue to make joint contributions from their stockpiles of normal uranium and fissionable materials to an International Atomic Energy Agency. We would expect that such an agency would be set up under the aegis of the United Nations."

"The ratios of contributions, the procedures and other details would properly be within the scope of the 'private conversations' I have referred to earlier."

"The United States is prepared to undertake these explorations in good faith. Any partner of the United States acting in the same good faith will find the United States a not unreasonable or ungenerous associate."

"Undoubtedly initial and early contributions to this plan would be small in quantity. However, the proposal has the great virtue that it can be undertaken without irritations and mutual suspicions incident to any attempt to set up a completely acceptable system of world-wide inspection and control."

"The atomic energy agency could be made responsible for the impounding, storage and protection of the contributed fissionable and other materials. The ingenuity of our scientists will provide special safe conditions under which such a bank of fissionable material could be made essentially immune to surprise seizure."

"The more important responsibility of this atomic energy agency would be to devise methods whereby this fissionable material would be allocated to serve the peaceful pursuits of mankind."

The President told his intently listening audience he was prepared to submit such a plan to Congress with every expectation it would be approved. He laid down as one condition, however, that the Soviet Union must be one of the countries which would take part.

He said the plan should have the following four points:

First—Encourage world-wide investigation into the most effective peacetime uses of fissionable material.

Second—Begin to diminish the potential destructive power of the world's atomic stockpiles.

Third—Allow all peoples of all nations to see that, in this enlightened age, the great powers of the earth, both of the East and of the West, are interested in human aspirations first and foremost rather than in building up the armaments of war.

Fourth—Open up a new channel for peaceful discussion and initiate at least a new approach to the many difficult problems that must be solved in both private and public conference if the world is to shake off the inertia imposed by fear and make positive progress toward peace."

Big 3 Ready To Meet With Russia Jan. 4

Washington, (AP) — The Big Three powers officially notified Russia yesterday they are ready to take part in a foreign ministers conference in Berlin Jan. 4. They expressed hope that the meeting would lead to reunification of Germany and independence for Austria.

In practically identical notes sent to the Kremlin, the United States, Britain and France proposed that the Big Four conference be held in the building formerly used by the Allied Control Council. This is in the American sector of Berlin.

The form of the Big Three communication was worked out at the Bermuda meeting of President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Laniel, which broke up early yesterday.

In accepting the Soviet offer to confer at the foreign ministers level—made in a surprise note from Moscow Nov. 26—the Big Three emphasized their interest in a speedy solution of the German and Austrian problems.

"The United States government is confident that real progress toward the settlement of the German and Austrian questions, which are especially urgent, will contribute to the solution of other major international problems, including that of European security," the American note said. It was made public here tonight.

The Western replies left the way open for Russia to press its demand that Communist China be allowed to join a five-power conference in the near future. But the Big Three gave no sign they would agree to any such meeting.

"The Soviet government has stated its desire to discuss the possibility of a Five-Power conference," said the notes. "The forthcoming meeting of the four foreign ministers will enable any participating government to state its views on this question."

The terse Western notes were in reply to a 2,000-word message from Premier Malenkov's government. This Soviet note specifically proposed the meeting in Berlin "in the near future" for "the purpose of reducing tensions in international relations."

Winnie Weeps At Farewell

Tucker's Town, Bermuda (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill, aging architect of the Bermuda Big Three conference, wept as he said farewell yesterday to President Eisenhower.

The wartime and peacetime colleagues shook hands at the U. S.-leased Kindley Field after the winding up of talks with French Premier Laniel which has as their biggest apparent result the dispatch of a note to Russia suggesting that the Berlin foreign ministers' parley open Jan. 4.

Then President Eisenhower took off in his plane Columbine with Secretary of State Dulles for New York to appeal before the United Nations General Assembly for peace in an atom-peril world.

Tears filled Churchill's eyes at the parting. The British leader looked weary and leaned on a cane as he shook hands and said goodbye.

"Thank you very much sir," Eisenhower responded. "Take care of your health."

In a short address to a crowd of about 1,000, Eisenhower said he was delighted to have come to this British island in the Atlantic and thanked Bermudians for "the wonderful reception" given the Americans.

Mrs. Incognito Goes Incognito

Jersey City, N. J. (AP) — Mrs. Myrtle Incognito, 37, was indicted yesterday on charges of using phony names in passing bad checks.

Hitler Film Debuts

Hamburg, Germany (AP) — A documentary film on Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun, which created a stir here and abroad before its first public showing, had its world premier in 10 Hamburg theaters last night before sell-out audiences.

Peace Parley Talks Near Breakdown; Dean Raps Reds

Panmunjom, Wednesday, (AP) — U. S. Envoy Arthur H. Dean accused the Communists today of not even reading his "final offer" plan for a Korean peace conference.

The Communists again rejected the plan outright today. They angrily insisted that Russia must attend as a neutral. Dean has said she would never accept a neutral role for the Soviet Union.

There were signs the seven-week-old talks to arrange a peace conference were heading for a breakup.

Dean charged that after he presented his 17-point plan for a conference yesterday, North Korean delegate Ki Sok Bok left the English, Korean and Chinese texts lying on the table.

"You refused to pick them up and left them lying there," Dean said. "Is this an example of your thoughtful, patient and courteous negotiations?"

"You don't even listen to what I have to say," he added.

Dean called the Soviet Union "warlike, powerful, aggressive and bullying." He accused Russia of "swallowing" small nations.

The U. S. envoy said he refused to accept "the nice old lady role in which you attempt to cast her (Russia)."

"She is red, but you never can make me believe she is Little Red Riding Hood's grandmother. Her claws are too sharp. She has eaten too many small nations."

"What is the sense of continuing these talks?" Dean asked. "Why waste our time?"

"You apparently don't want a conference," Dean told the Reds. The talks have been in session since Oct. 26.

Pope Pius Opens Marian Year With Peace Prayers

Rome, (AP) — Pope Pius XII, in the principal inaugural ceremony of the Marian year, prayed yesterday to the Virgin Mary to end hatred in the world and bring it universal peace and sincere peace.

The words were from the Marian year prayer which he composed. His voice ringing with emotion, the Pope spoke in Christendom's oldest church dedicated to the mother of Jesus—the Basilica of St. Mary Major.

The 77-year-old pontiff, looking rather frail, was given a tremendous ovation by hundreds of thousands of Romans and pilgrims who lined his five-mile route from the Vatican to the Basilica.

Woman Inherits $179,730 Fortune On 68th Birthday

St. Louis, (AP) — Mrs. Della McKeon's 68th birthday anniversary yesterday was a happy one, and for a good reason—she got a check for $479,730.

But the great grandmother said she won't let the money change her life—"I'm going to continue to be just plain me."

The check was her share in the 3 1/2 million dollar estate left by Mrs. Sara M. Weller, widow of a wealthy Pittsburgh, Pa., oil man.

Mrs. McKeon's son by a previous marriage, John J. Phelan, 46, has helped support her for 35 years. They have shared a two-room apartment just south of downtown St. Louis.

A faded photograph of Mrs. McKeon made the presentation possible.

Arthur Murray Robbed

New York, (AP) — Dance instructor Arthur Murray reported four gun-waving robbers muscled their way into his Park Ave. apartment last night and stole $25,000 in jewels and $150 in cash.

Cleveland, (AP) — An argument over a penny bus transfer cost the Cleveland Transit System $6,500 in a Common Pleas Court decision yesterday.

Judge Felix Matia awarded that amount to Mrs. Emma Dadds, 70, after she testified that a bus driver, arguing with a male passenger over a transfer, slammed on the brakes, throwing her to the floor and breaking her pelvis.

Radar Expert Faces Perjury Prosecution

Washington, (AP) — The McCarthy investigating committee moved yesterday to start perjury proceedings against suspended Army radar expert—partly on the basis of "from the grave" testimony by executed atom spy Julius Rosenberg.

Roy Cohn, counsel to the Senate investigations subcommittee, said Rosenberg's testimony while on trial for his life is "direct, flat contradiction" to a denial by radar specialist Aaron Coleman that he knew Rosenberg at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis) then announced a transcript of the Coleman testimony—with a "from the grave" rebuttal by Rosenberg—will be sent to the Justice Department "with the recommendation that it be submitted to the grand jury."

Coleman was the first witness called yesterday as the investigators looking for evidence of Soviet radar spying at Ft. Monmouth's Army Signal Corps laboratories, switched their hearings from New York to Washington.

Albino Doe Shot At Coudersport

Coudersport, (AP) — Hunters offered a $100 reward yesterday for information leading to the apprehension of the person or persons who killed an albino doe.

The albino was found Sunday badly wounded. Game protectors finally shot it. The animal was a daily visitor to the town's golf course.

Penny Argument Proves Costly

Cleveland, (AP) — An argument over a penny bus transfer cost the Cleveland Transit System $6,500 in a Common Pleas Court decision yesterday.

Judge Felix Matia awarded that amount to Mrs. Emma Dadds, 70, after she testified that a bus driver, arguing with a male passenger over a transfer, slammed on the brakes, throwing her to the floor and breaking her pelvis.

Reimer Gives Lions Facts About Concrete

Stroudsburg Lions at their dinner meeting last night in the Penn-Stroud Hotel heard an address by Russell Reimer, first president of the Portland Lions Club, on the importance of concrete construction of roads, bridges and buildings in America today.

Reimer, who through his connection with the Portland Sand and Gravel Co., is conversant with concrete making in all its phases, spoke on the history of highway construction, and touched on many practical aspects of the industry.

He stated that when concrete is poured and forms a cone of material, that is much to be preferred over pourings in which the material flattens out, since the latter phase indicates the presence of too much water in the material.

He told of his concern pouring vast quantities of concrete for the bridge over the Delaware River.

Reimer also told of the vast deposits of gravel and stones up to boulders left across the face of the land in this area by the recession of the last ice age and explained how large stones, even boulders, are ground down to the size needed in construction. He gave many tips on the use of concrete in laying of walks on private properties and also on buildings.

Joseph Clampi was program chairman.

Emerson Rahn, chairman of the committee on the proposed Christmas party for the ladies and children of the Lions, as well as other invited friends, urged all the members to report the number of their prospective guests at the earliest possible moment. Santa Claus will be present and will distribute gifts.

Community Concert Group Obtains Two Leading Singers For Second Attraction

A joint recital by two of America's leading concert singers is the second major attraction on this year's Community Concert series. Thursday night in State Teachers College auditorium the concert association will present Todd Duncan and Camilla Williams, in recital.

Duncan has had a long and varied career as a soloist with symphonic orchestras throughout the nation. High on the list of his appearances with noted symphony orchestras was his association with The Chicago Symphony.

Born in Danville, Ky., Todd Duncan was graduated from Butler

College with a B.A.; later received an M.A. from Columbia University. He then joined the music faculty of Howard University in Washington, D. C.

While still a young man, he left academic life to create the role of Porgy in George Gershwin's folk opera "Porgy and Bess."

Since its first presentation the Gershwin opera has become a symbol of American musical art in foreign countries. Last year, in a revised production staged by Robert Breen, the opera was presented in 14 nations abroad; was hailed as the "distinctive American masterpiece" of the half-century.

Duncan's success in the role of Porgy was phenomenal. It launched him on an equally successful career as a concert artist both in the U. S. and overseas.

In 1945 he visited South America for the first time, to great critical and audience acclaim. In 1945-46 he joined the New York City Opera Co., singing "Tonio" in "Pagliacci" and the Tenebris in "Carmen."

Not only a brilliant singer, but an actor of great sensitivity, Duncan's greatest personal success in his homeland came in 1949 when he created the role of the tragic Zulu minister in "Lost In The Stars," a musical adaptation of Alan Paton's novel, "Cry, the Beloved Country."

Duncan was hailed as "the perfect choice" by the New York Herald Tribune.

In Thursday night's recital Duncan can be expected to sing many of the songs which his two Broadway appearances and endless concert engagements have associated with him.

Camilla Williams, during the

past five years, has become one of the most sought-after opera singers in America.

She achieved her greatest personal success when she appeared as Cio-Cio-San in the post-war production of "Madame Butterfly" with the New York City Opera Co.

Geraldine Farrar—an artist long identified with the role—called her "one of the great Butterflies of our day."

Mailing Dates Near, Postal Chief Advises

The days before Christmas are going by much faster than the mail is coming in, according to East Stroudsburg Postmaster Norman Gregory.

"I've already noticed a considerable increase in Christmas card sending," he reported last night. "But parcel post is lagging behind. Actually, it should be the other way around."

All gift packages for distant states should be in the mail today, and those for nearby points no later than Saturday, he said. Christmas cards require less time to cover the same distance. They should be posted by Dec. 15 for out-of-town delivery, and at least a week before Christmas for local addresses.

Postmaster Gregory points out that unless these mailing dates are observed, there's a danger of incoming mail slowing up the outgoing operation. Commercial shipments are another hazard that may prevent delivery before Dec. 25.

Canceled machines in the East Stroudsburg Postoffice are now registering about 10,000 pieces of mail daily. Once the big rush begins they will average 30,000 daily clicks. So Gregory urges everyone to:

"Finish mailing Christmas gifts right away, and remember, at this time of year, every package should be wrapped as securely as if it were going overseas."

"Buy the extra stamps you'll need for Christmas cards. Pick up a few air mail and special delivery stamps, in case you forget someone at the last minute."

Go to the postoffice before 10 a. m. or between 1:30 and 3:30 p. m. and avoid the big lunch-hour crowd."

Dealing With An Enemy

There is no avoiding the four-power conference on Germany which now seems to be in the making.

The Western powers—the U. S., France and Britain—could not, in good conscience, decline to meet with the Russians on this issue, after plugging for the conference all these years.

It would be unreasonable to reject such a meeting. By any standards of fairness, a settlement of the German problem is called for. And so long as there is any chance, however remote, of forcing a decent agreement with Russians, it is worth the trying.

But, if and when the conference of foreign ministers actually takes place, the world will be making another major blunder if it assumes that, just because the Communists are willing to sit down and talk, they mean business. The Russians aren't made that way. It isn't their kind of game.

Even if they did agree to unification of Germany, with free elections, they are more than likely to try to sabotage the agreement after it has been made. That, consistently, has been their practice.

At Bermuda, President Eisenhower has viewed with disbelief Winston Churchill's wishful guess that there is a "new look" in Moscow and that now is the world's "supreme" opportunity for capitalizing on it in the hope of a peaceful settlement of the cold war.

While agreeing to the four-power conference on Germany, American policy is that Russia is still our enemy and must be dealt with on that basis. Any other policy would be foolhardy. Appeasement has brought us to our present tense predicament, and more of it can lead only to disaster.

The whole philosophy, shared by the British and French, of gingerly avoiding in advance any steps which might provide the Russians with an excuse for upsetting the conference is as forlorn as the Munich surrender. The Russians do not need excuses, they make their own.

If they actually mean to settle the German problem, they will agree to it regardless, just as they accepted the so-called "truce" in Korea when it suited their purpose. No amount of patty-vaist placation will persuade them.

If we do not deal with them from strength, we deal at our peril.

Ambition vs. Fear

If the American people are worried about the possibility of being blown up by one of the new bombs, they aren't showing it.

The person who has moved to the country for that reason is so rare as to be a curiosity. But the people who have moved from the country to the city during the atomic era total millions. Moreover, population estimates since the 1950 census indicate this migration still continues, with the rural areas losing population steadily.

Various things may impel a person to move, but the most important pressure is economic—the rural resident moves to the city to make a better living for himself and his family.

That desire for a better life is stronger, obviously, than any fear the American migrant might have about his chances of becoming a bomb victim.

That simple fact tells a great deal about the American character, and we should all be cheered by it.

The Once Over

Why No Lighted Churches?

Why aren't the churches of the land brilliantly illuminated to glorify the Christmas spirit during Yuletide? With few exceptions the churches remain in complete darkness at a time when everybody is going all-out to illumine and beautify the season. The church, cathedral and chapel, the places where the Christmas spirit has its very base, alone remain undecorated and bleak in a blaze of radiance in street, avenue and boulevard.

Business houses, amusement places and homes spare no effort or expense to glorify the Christmas season by decoration and color. Why should churches go without a single lighted window as "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem" is heard around the world? What tells the story and sends forth the spirit of the Nativity more wonderfully than a stained glass window fully lighted? Churchmen make curious arguments, a chief one of which is that the church must preserve its dignity and maintain aloofness to the spectacular. A lighted stained glass window depicting the manger and the story of the Saints is not a "spectacle" but a thing of great beauty, lifting the human spirit. An illuminated cross and a spotlighted manger in a churchward are not a sacrifice of dignity to most people. A child can be held more spellbound by a manger than by an advertising sign in the business section. And it's a different fascination.

This is an age when, perhaps unfortunately, showmanship in every phase of life is being employed as never before to get public attention, to promote a cause, to sell a product. Never have so many people been so greatly influenced by light and color and radiance, even in the most superficial forms. Many of the agencies in modern life which hamper the church, injure religion and cut down church attendance are not missing a bet in gripping the public through Christmas illuminations. Does it make sense for the church to scorn such opposition, to leave it to these agencies—many of them evil—to fascinate children and

Balky North Korean POWs Accused As War Criminals

Washington—An extraordinary Red atrocity problem is stumping U. S. authorities.

They are undecided what to do about a group of prisoners who have refused to be repatriated to the Communists and are being accused by the South Koreans of committing numerous war crimes.

U. S. officials consider this complex situation as the most difficult in some respects of all the tragic atrocity problems.

Because the fate of these POW is still hanging fire, references to them was purposely omitted by both Ambassador Lodge, in his scathing denunciation of Red war crimes before the United Nations, and by Sen. Charles Potter (R. Mich.) in his public hearings on these atrocities.

The accused POW number around a dozen, most of them North Koreans.

A lot of evidence against them is in the possession of both American and ROK officers. It involves charges of murder, looting and other crimes before the prisoners were captured and killings in UN camps afterwards.

The South Korean government is unconcerned about the latter because only enemy personnel was involved, but is demanding punishment for crimes against UN troops and civilians. The ROKs are insisting the group be turned over to them for trial as war criminals.

At present the accused are in the hands of the UN Repatriation Commission. Under the true agreement they will revert to UN custody next February 28 after the conclusion of the persuasion talks, unless they change their minds and return to the Communists before then.

So far as is known, the prisoners are not aware they are under a black cloud of incriminating evidence. That is believed the reason they have not sought repatriation.

Hall believes he has already made some progress.

He is telling intimates he is confident he can bring about a complete get-together provided "everyone concerned will keep his temper and there are no more blow-ups."

One of them had a lot to do with McCarthy issuing his plea that the White House be deluged with messages supporting him.

Following is the inside story on how that happened:

Hall was not consulted by either the President or Secretary Dulles on his proposed move.

He had got in touch with McCarthy after he announced he would reply to them. After some persuading, the Wisconsin patriot, William A. Dr. Wirt's Prophetic Statement In 1934 Now Revived As Smear In Ickes' Diary

Smear That Never Ends

Harold Ickes is dead and has left behind a diary which is most interesting because comparisons can now be made with what Ickes believed when he was a blatant major-domo of the Roosevelt regime. Apparently Ickes disliked many of the New Dealers.

For those who have forgotten Ickes, "he was secretary of the interior in the Roosevelt Cabinet. He had been a Republican who had moved into the Bull Moose Progressive Party of Theodore Roosevelt, back to the Republicans, and landed in the New Deal. His ambition was to be head of the Bureau of Indian Affairs but he was made secretary of the interior instead. Forceful in speech, quarrelsome in manner, independently rich by marriage, Ickes cut quite a figure in the hey-day of changing the world. He enjoyed a noisy fight and managed to keep himself on the front pages of newspapers by the expression of meticulously conceived spontaneous outbursts of unusual phraseology."

One paragraph in his secret diary, now no longer secret, intrigued me because it continues the smear of an American patriot, William A. Wirt, who was hounded to death by the group which is now being brought to the exposure of blinding light. Shall I appoint myself the guardian of the memory of this fine

American? The Ickes paragraph reads:

"I had learned yesterday that when a newspaper reporter called recently to interview Dr. William Wirt at his camp in Gary, Indiana, he asked Wirt if he could use his telephone. Assent being given, he was shown into a closet and when he turned the light on in there, he saw a pile of silver shirts, the uniform of a Fascist order that is attempted to be built up in the country at this time. I suggest to the President that it might be well to have an investigation made of this matter."

It would have been more interesting if Ickes had given the name of the reporter so that he could testify under oath to the facts. The Silver Shirts was a scurrilous organization, founded by William Dudley Pelley, who once wrote an article for a magazine in which he claimed that he died, had a conversation with God, and returned to life. I do not have the article before me, but my recollection after all these years is that his conversation lasted two or three minutes, after which he wrote the afore-said magazine article. Pelley has been trying to make a living out of it for many years.

To accuse William Wirt of being a Silver Shirt, back in 1934 or 1935, was to say that he was a scoundrel, a Fascist, a Nazi, a fool. He was none of these, although his attempt to cure the New Deal of fallacy seemed quixotic. And actually what was his crime?

Dr. William Wirt, an educator of Gary, Indiana, as far back as April, 1934, told the story which "We believe we have Mr. Roosevelt in the middle of a swift stream and that the current is so strong that he can not turn back or escape it."

"We all think that Mr. Roosevelt is only the Kerensky of this revolution. We believe we can keep him there until we are ready to supplant him with a Stalin."

It is not clear who this Stalin was to be but there were several aspirants.

Harold Ickes' reference to Dr. Wirt is a reminder of this heroic pedagogue who spoke out in 1934. He was smeared even as though he were a Nazi. He was laughed at and ridiculed and humiliated until he died of it. But we now know that Dr. William A. Wirt told the truth at the very beginning of an unbelievable page of history. He was prophetic.

Looking At Life

On the tombstone of Sir Christopher Wren, probably England's most famous architect, in St. Paul's Cathedral in London is this inscription:

It is in Latin, but I shall quote it in its English translation:

"Beneath is laid the builder of the church and city, who lived above ninety years, not for himself but for the public good. Reader, if thou seekest his monument, look around."

Sir Christopher has been dead 230 years, but the inscription on his stone might still be that of anyone to whom life has meant more than just existing. To the hundreds who have asked me to tell them what the purpose of life really is, and how they can make their life more than just a hardly noticeable wavellet in the flow of time Wren's epitaph might well be an answer and a guide.

Only a few days ago I had a letter from a woman in Charlotte, N. C.

She is the mother of four children, she writes. One daughter is a nurse. One son is a sergeant in the U. S. Marines. A second son is studying to be a doctor. The youngest daughter is still going to school but she has made up her mind to be an actress.

The mother is perturbed. She can't imagine why life has been so cruel to her to make an actress out of a daughter of hers!

"What can I do?" she asks me. "It now seems that I have wasted my whole life. My husband is foreman in a large plant, and he feels ashamed of himself when he thinks how he will be kidded by his fellow workers when our daughter becomes an actress. And I think that I have completely failed as a mother."

To that woman, with her old-fashioned, narrow-minded ideas that fit better into Sir Christopher's time than into our own, I say, in paraphrase of the Latin inscription on his tombstone—"Circumspice"—look around you.

Isn't your best monument the family you have brought into the world and reared into the professions of nurse, soldier, and doctor?

Do you realize all the good

Try and Stop Me

Bob Hope is called upon to act out about a hundred new gags a month. On the principle that he himself must enjoy a few of them more than the run-of-the-mill polished-up chestnuts, a reporter asked him to select some of his favorites. After some reflection, Hope said he liked a sequence wherein he and Bing Crosby by encountered a herd of sheep on a country road and promptly launched a chorus of Yale's popular "Whiffenpoof Song." When the sheep chimed in with well-timed "Baa, baa, baa," Hope remarked, "Fred Waring must have been through here." Hope also got a kick out of playing a cute, comspuncher who nipped once in to a typical tough frontier saloon and ordered a sarsaparilla. When the rugged regular at the bar looked as though they might lynch him, he added loudly, "Put it in a dirty glass."

Mike Connolly spotted this sign on a shuttered magic shop: "Vanished till next season."

CUTIES

—by Mel Heimer

New York—In the course of a talk I had a little while back with Maurice Evans, I learned that one of the reasons that genial and enormously gifted actor has decided to stay in America and make it his home was the treatment of his picture in Sardi's restaurant in West 44th street. When Evans first came to this country—to star with Katharine Cornell, I believe—he was caricatured by Gard, a Sardi's custom, and the portrait hung in a favored spot near the door. "Later I returned to this country after being back in England a number of years," Evans told me, "and although no one in Sardi's had seen me in a long, long time, there was my picture, still in the same place. It made me feel wonderful, and I will love Sardi's always."

A lot of other great actors—the majority, I should say—also will love Sardi's always. Of all the restaurants in the Broadway theater area—certainly of all the theatrical restaurants—that 32-year-old chophouse is the warmest, the most delightfully casual, the most all around. Like any top-drawer joint along the big drag, it's full of name-droppers and table-hoppers and it caters to the movie actress in dark glasses and two hunk coats (one to drag) but in spite of these unappetizing souls, Sardi's conquers all with its charm.

The charm of a restaurant, in the last analysis, must come from its proprietor—and both old Vincent and young Vincent are extremely personable and almost as loaded with charm as Charles Boyer. This charm also seeps into the pages of Richard Gehman's new book Sardi's: The Story of a Famous Restaurant (Holt), which has just appeared in the stalls. In a town where so many top restaurateurs are boorish, alcoholic, boring and humorously heavy-handed, the Sardi touch has been for years a welcome relief.

Gehman's book devotes one chapter, incidentally, to those Gard caricatures, like Evans'. The artist actually was named Alexis Kremkoff and he was a white Russian refugee, a dark, medium sized man who dressed sloppily but always carried a stick.

He did more than 700 drawings of the theatrical great and near-great in the many years he worked for old Vincent, and he had a contract with Sardi's that was unique: it provided that Gard was to receive one meal a day for himself and one guest. If he missed a day, he couldn't have two meals the next day. Then on until his death (in 1948), old Vincent comments wryly.

Beginning with the late, great comedian Ted Healy, Gard drew virtually all of the top ones. He drew them craftily, coldly, violently and he called them "All Gard's Chillun." He made many women cry; Helen Morgan, for one. He was so acid in his treatment of George Price that that genial comedian invariably sat as far away as possible from the place where his caricature hung.

Fannie Hurst was displeased; she thought Gard made her too fat. Miss Cornell was drawn with a cigar hanging in her mouth and when she protested, Gard reluctantly removed the weed, muttering about meddling women (Sardi's wife intervened in Miss C's behalf).

Many of the theater's people were, and still are, enormously vain about having been "tapped" for Sardi's walls. Gehman's book tells about Keely Allen, the late drama critic, who always sat where he could look at himself. One day Keely called excitedly to old Vincent. "There's a fly sitting on the nose of my picture," he whispered, "would you please go and shoot it away?"

In 1947, the practice of awarding "Tonys" in the theatre was begun, in memory of actress—director Antoinette Perry, who died in 1936. They held a banquet around Easter time, for those first awards—the only ones given by the professional theater to its own people—and one of the winners was, of all people, old Vincent. He got a gold money clip, inscribed: "To Vincent Sardi, for providing a transient home and comfort for theater folk at Sardi's for 29 years."

That Tony went to the right man—a charming and gracious man who in his lifetime has done almost as much for the theater of Broadway as, say, John Barrymore.

Public Invited To Chart Course For Chamber Of Commerce

Questionnaire Goes Out To Area Citizens

Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce today launches a forward-looking, extensive program designed to "give members what they want" from the organization.

Most unusual—and in one sense important—step being taken is the Chamber in its current effort to let members, residents, members and community prospects get off some steam on their own ideas concerning what the ideal Chamber of Commerce should be.

The project is novel in more ways than one. Chamber officers are working in earnest to find out—and attempt to give—the present condition of their organization within the framework of the community.

Under provisions of the present project, the Chamber wants to prove some very important theories.

First of these is the belief that the Chamber of Commerce should include representative groups from all basic endeavors within the community.

This means the Chamber would include not only industrial, resort, real estate and professional organizations in its membership, but would also receive support, through membership, from civic groups and all other organizations which depend upon Monroe County's well-being for their success and "health."

In short, the project says: "A Chamber of Commerce should be the center of an active civic—it should have an active hand in everything which is planned and carried out for the betterment of the community in which it exists."

Today, at the Chamber office on Main St., hundreds of envelopes will be mailed to Monroe County residents.

Contained in the envelopes will be a questionnaire. Those who receive the single-sheet questionnaire will be asked to "read each one of the questions seriously."

From the answers to these questions, Chamber directors—and incoming officers for the 1954 term—hope to revamp, rejuvenate and revitalize their organization.

As one of the members of the Chamber's executive committee—G. L. Smrz—put it last night:

"We want as many views as we can get. Regardless of whether people get the questionnaires, if they're interested in the problems of the community as reflected in the Chamber of Commerce, we will welcome their opinions and suggestions."

"We are attempting to construct a workable, practical, efficient organization capable of building a better community in every phase of its life."

"This task is of just as much interest to the housewife, the educator and the often misnamed small businessman as it is to our largest industry. We are all a part of one community."

"It is this community which the Chamber of Commerce serves."

Association Head Opposes Move To Close Free Span

Dr. W. Wilson McNeary, Lumberville, Pa., yesterday joined the groups of citizens and trade organizations condemning the proposed demolition of the free bridge at Portland.

Speaking "for myself, and not for the Delaware Valley Protective Association" of which he is president, McNeary said he looked with "profound disfavor" on the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission's move to close the free bridge since the toll bridge was opened.

A hearing will take place on the matter in Federal court in Trenton, N. J., Thursday morning.

Later Zuessman plays it back and types up the proceedings at leisure. Qualified in standard shorthand and in stenotyping, Zuessman says this method is speedier than either. (Daily Record Photo)

YMCA Officers Instructed To Continue Efforts Toward Resumption Of Construction

The work stoppage at the new Monroe County YMCA building was discussed in detail at a meeting of the directors in the Penn-Stroud Hotel last night.

As a result of the discussion, the president, secretary and building committee of the board were authorized to continue efforts to have operations at the building resume as soon as possible. They will meet shortly to consider their next move.

John R. Wilson, general secretary, reported that building fund subscriptions were coming in satisfactorily. New subscriptions amounted to $712.14 were reported by Wilson, who stated the total was $31,931.31 on a three-year basis. Collections amounted to $66,449.09 to date, he said.

Dr. Joseph F. Noonan, chairman of the building committee, informed the board three representatives of the building bureau of the National Y had met with his committee on Monday.

Plans and specifications for furnishing all departments in the new structure were submitted. The furnishings, it was explained, are of special type which are used effectively in Y buildings throughout the country.

The estimated cost was given as $33,382.45 including service fees of 10 per cent. The amount of $30,000 has been budgeted for this purpose.

However, it was pointed out that considerable furnishings from the old building including kitchen equipment, are available. It was noted also that a considerable number of items on the recommended list could be deleted, all which would bring the eventual cost within the budget, Dr. Noonan reported.

The national board requested it be permitted to prepare specifications and secure bids; that the national board purchase the items direct after receiving competitive bids and local Y care for freight and placement. Awards are to be made on the basis of low cost bids, it was stated.

The building committee approved the suggestions and recommended the board approve the action, which it did.

A communication from Rev. Harold N. MacMurray, president of board of managers of the Barrett branch as presented by Secretary Wilson, showed that bids for changes in the proposed Y building at Mountainhome had been received and would be acted on by the Barrett board next Monday night. Inasmuch as final action must be approved by the Monroe County Y board, the latter adjourned to meet with the Barrett board in Mountainhome at that time at 7:45 p.m.

A bill for $900 from the architects, Rinker and Kiefer for making plans and specifications was ordered paid.

Secretary Wilson reported on activities of the various groups of young people and others affiliated with the Y.

Indictments Returned In Four Cases

The grand jury completed its work swiftly yesterday, thanks to a shrunken list of criminal cases. Indictments were returned in all four cases considered.

Indicted were: William Kelley, East Stroudsburg, charged with burglary, and accused of breaking into a house trailer owned by an East Stroudsburg man.

John E. Fish Jr., East Stroudsburg is charged with driving while intoxicated.

Robert J. Laubach, Wind Gap, was indicted for burglary. He is accused by police of breaking into the Blue Ridge Drive-In theater refreshment stand on June 1 and stealing about $15 in cash and cigarettes. Laubach was arrested Oct. 17. Prosecutor in the case is Pfc. Frederick J. Mordock of the Brodheadville State police.

L. J. Griffiths, Trenton, N. J., was indicted on a charge of passing a fraudulent check. The case dates from 1950, according to District Attorney Elmer D. Christine.

Merle C. Ostrom, chairman of the committee planning observance of YMCA Week which gets under way the last of January, in his report said he would call his committee together to prepare a program.

D. W. Frankfield, president, presided over the meeting last night. Other board members present were: C. A. Keiper, Dr. Noonan, A. F. Everitt, A. J. Zabriskie, F. C. Faizinger, Theodore Hoffman, Rev. F. H. Blatt, Thomas Kistler, M. S. Baldwin, H. G. Sanborn, A. W. Williams and Holt Wyckoff, General Secretary Wilson and Youth Secretary Chopp.

Fine Remains Open-Minded On Candidate

Harrisburg (AP) — Gov. John S. Fine said yesterday he still is "open-minded" on a Republican candidate for governor in 1954 but that it is "likely" he and G. Mason Owlett, GOP national committeeman, will support the same candidate.

At a news conference, Fine did not rule out the possibility that U. S. Sen. James H. Duff might suggest a candidate he could endorse.

Fine emphasized that he does not at this time have a candidate of his own. He forecast that party "harmony" conferences of state party leaders will begin after Jan. 1.

Asked by a newsman whether he thought it was his responsibility as governor and titular head of the party in Pennsylvania to initiate the harmony parleys, Fine answered:

"At this time, I do not think so. The time has not arrived—and we will let the future take care of itself."

Fine said he will attend the annual banquet of the Pennsylvania Society in New York Saturday and indicated he expects a "number of political discussions" there.

Three factions of the state Republican Party headed by Fine, Owlett and Duff will be represented at the banquet. The yearly affair always offers an opportunity for political anglers to cast their lines.

Fine refused to discuss individual possibilities for the GOP gubernatorial candidate.

Strait Speaks To Students On Juvenile Delinquency

East Stroudsburg High School 12A "democracy class" students heard a discussion of juvenile delinquency yesterday.

Bennett Strait, special education supervisor for Monroe, Pike and Wayne Counties, was guest speaker during the regular class period.

Strait, whose work involves remedial instruction for children requiring special education facilities due to handicaps, told the senior students that, in order to develop in a well-balanced manner, the average human being needs "to develop a tolerance for frustration."

This tolerance would lead to good sportsmanship and the ability to recover from disappointments.

The speaker then traced the four phases in the psychological development of the child, explaining the various influences which cause each individual child to develop into a different kind of human being.

An increase in the number of persons suffering from mental illness was also noted by the speaker who pointed out that, today, the number of mentally ill and physically ill persons is nearly equivalent.

Juvenile delinquency, Strait concluded, is related to mental illness, resulting, as it does, from maladjustments to the child's environment.

Yesterday's program was arranged by Ann Yetter, Mrs. Kathleen Butz is the democracy teacher.

In 1819 there were about 675 American whale ships in the Pacific Ocean with about 15,000 crewmen aboard.

According to the papers which were filed by Williams and Williams, of Stroudsburg, Hauser's car was stopped in a line of traffic on Route 611 and the other car rammed into the rear of his. Hauser allegedly suffered bruised legs and shock.

Looking for a real deal?

Now's the time to save money!

Today's local delivered price of the BUICK SPECIAL

2-Door, 6-Passenger Sedan
Model 48D (illustrated)

$2277<sup>88</sup>***

*Optional equipment, accessories, state and local taxes, if any, additional. Prices may vary slightly in adjusting commodities due to shipping charges. All prices subject to change without notice.

WE feature the delivered price of the Buick pictured here to make a point about the big trade-in allowances we're giving today.

The price you pay for the car itself—the local delivered price—is the first thing to look for when you're bargain-hunting.

It's this figure less what you get on your trade-in that determines your real cost—the dollar difference you pay.

That means—keep your eye on the dollar difference. The more car it buys, the better deal you make.

So with our low delivered price and the high trade-in allowances we're giving right now—we think we have a whale of a buy for you.

And when you check into things, we believe you'll discover this:

You get more room and power for your money in this Buick than in any other car on the market.

You get hundreds of pounds more automobile here—more strength in the brawnier frame, more durability in the heavier chassis, more safety in the thicker structural members—than in a long list of cars at this Buick's price or higher.

You also get a lot more in a Buick that the specifications don't show—more fun, more thrill, more comfort, more pride and pleasure.

But why waste another day—with time growing shorter, winter coming closer, and your present car getting older? If you're looking for a real automobile at a real buy in a real deal—come look at Buick right now.

Realtors See New Bridges Creating Boom

Pocono Mountains Real Estate Board elected new officers yesterday at its monthly meeting and some members predicted a boom in business development following opening of the new Delaware River Bridges leading into this area.

Primary factor in such a development—both on New Jersey and Pennsylvania banks of the river—would be the heavy influx of traffic, the realtors said.

Officers named by the organization were Forrest R. Smith, president; Lawrence Ramsey, vice president; Arthur Yetter, treasurer and Mrs. Gertrude Auerbacher, elected secretary of the group.

Members also voted to set aside one morning each week to go out as a group to visit properties listed with the board in an effort to "familiarize" members with various properties listed with the board, giving them a chance to evaluate the qualities of each property.

60-Mile Speed Limit Planned On Route 22

Harrisburg (AP)—A 60-mile per hour speed limit will be permitted on an experimental basis along U.S. Rt. 22 east of Harrisburg beginning on Jan. 10.

Gov. John S. Fine said yesterday agreement on the increased speed limit on a 33-mile stretch of the dual highway was reached at a conference with Highways Secretary E. L. Schmidt.

It will be the first time that a speed above 50 miles per hour has been permitted on a Pennsylvania highway other than the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The Highways Department was authorized by the 1953 General Assembly to boost the speed limit to 60 on certain stretches of highway. Rt. 22 is the first to be approved for the experiment.

Fine made the disclosure at a press conference and said the accident rate probably will determine whether the limit will become permanent.

The section of Rt. 22 to be affected by the increase runs from suburban Progress to the end of the dual highway stretch at its intersection with Rt. 83 near Strausstown.

It carries traffic between Pennsylvania's Capitol City and the Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton area.

Group Maps 11 Guidance Conferences

Banger — Vocational guidance committee of the Exchange and Kiwanis Clubs met at the school library last night with Arnold Wynne, guidance counselor of the high school, to plan for 11 conferences to be held at the high school this school year.

Wynne told the committee about the five conferences held to date and noted that the average attendance was 47 students. He also pointed out that 12 different consultants gave their time to attend the conferences.

Members of the Exchange Club committee include Delbert Messenger, Allan Ryder, Harvey Miller, Wendell Miller, Ralph Ackerman, Trevor Williams and Arnold Wynne. Kiwanians are Anson Haman, Virgil Wise, Thomas Naylor, William D. Scott and Walter Evans.

and is the main direct highway from here to New York City.

Seal Drive Advances To $5,749 Mark

Monroe County residents have purchased $5,749.65 in Christmas Seals during the first part of the 1953 drive by Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society.

This leaves $2,760.25 still to go on the society's $8,500 goal for the year, according to Carl T. Secor, board president.

In an effort to speed up return of the funds to its Sarah St. office, the society's workers yesterday began sending out "reminder cards" to residents who have not, as yet, returned their purchase money for the 1953 seals.

These cards, according to Mrs. Estelle Fleming, executive secretary, are intended only to remind residents that they have—or should have—received their seals.

If they have received the seals and have not returned their money for the purchase, residents are urged to do so just as quickly as possible, before the rush of Christmas shopping and mailing causes loss of the seals.

A total of 7,106 letters were mailed with Christmas Seals inside them to the same number of Monroe residents this year, Mrs. Fleming said.

Of this total only 3,488 have been returned to the Society's offices.

Pocono Garden Club Ends Year With Yuletide Banquet

Tannersville. Small red Christmas candles on wooden stands trimmed with pine and cones marked each place at the annual banquet of the Pocono Garden Club held last night at Mount Airy Lodge, Swiftwater.

Mrs. Millard Rice, president, greeted the members and their husbands and their guests and introduced her staff of officers. She also presented the new president, Mrs. Ruth Learn, who in turn introduced her officers: Mrs. Charles Besecker, vice president; Mrs. Donald Hartman, secretary; and Mrs. Floyd DeHaven, treasurer.

A gift from the club in appreciation for her two terms of service was presented to Mrs. Rice by Mrs. Marjorie Canfield, who also served as program chairman.

The program featured the Decemettes of Stroudsburg High School under the direction of Numa Snyder, who sang two groups of songs including "Night Song," "Song of the Metronome," and a group of Christmas songs, the Burgundian carol, "Patapan," the Crusader's hymn, "Beautiful Saviour," "Bring a Torch, Jeanette Isabella," and "In Bethlehem's Lowly Manger."

Between the carols, Mrs. Grant Knowles presented a series of humorous dramatizations and pantomimes including the "Romance of Billy Mugwump," and "Anniversary Celebration," and was warmly applauded. Walter Sebring led the group carols.

A display of Christmas wreaths, mantal decorations and table arrangements by the members was judged by Arthur Litt and Miss Margaret MacLaren. Awards went to Mrs. Donald Hartman and Mrs. Millard Rice, first; Mrs. Clyde White, Mrs. Robert Layton and Mrs. Hayland Heller, second; and Mrs. Charles Besecker, third.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

This is the singiest time of the year and every organization is vying to have the young people come and sing for them. The youngsters not only sing sweet, but they look pretty, too, so that any meeting is a success with them there.

It's a killing schedule though the ES Elementary Chorus sang last night for the Music Club, and members were still aching over how sweet they looked with their holiday bows and colorful vests and pretty songbooks with the Christmas streamers. The Woman's Club will be hearing them next week.

The SHS Madrigal Singers had their night on Monday at the WSCS and Gradale; and the Decemettes last night with Laurel Court and the Pocono Garden Club. Incidentally, the Decemettes look pretty decorative, too, in those new outfits—white flannel blazers with maroon ascots and maroon skirts and they sing as fine as they look.

Which reminds me that this is also the eating-time of the year, too. That Pocono Garden Club banquet, wow. Baked Alaska and some very unusual Christmas cookies for dessert. I saw all those specialists in Christmas cookies sampling them, with a considerable air, testing the ingredients to see if they could duplicate them, I'll bet.

Oh yes, and I heard Mrs. Grant Knowles do some of her famous dramatizations, and now I know why she's in such demand at the Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Aux., and the Progressive Woman's Club and all the rest.

You know I think that's why I enjoy these annual Pocono dinners so much, because I get a chance to match up the faces with the names that keep appearing in so many of the community activities up there. Pretty nice faces, too.

The Secret Pal Club of the Women of the Moose will meet on Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Frances Adams, 22 Third St., Stroudsburg, when pals will exchange Christmas presents. It was announced that Mrs. Gladys Mink had won the attendance prize at the last meeting.

"It's a dreadful nuisance trying to suit gifts to people," one of our customers mourned the other afternoon. "I'd much rather buy the things I like and find people to suit them."

Most of us have shared this feeling at times, I imagine—and have stopped also to consider what a wonderful joy it would be to go shopping just one Christmas, able to buy anything that appealed.

If ever this should happen to me, I'm almost certain I'd have a sleigh full of such exciting items as these, to be found right now in my favorite store—a copper tea kettle trimmed in brass, just the right size for making a friendly "spot of tea" on a winter afternoon... the biggest bottle of perfume in the store, fragrance notwithstanding just so long as it looks and smells exciting... the handsomest manicure set in the case for the most fastidious woman of my acquaintance... a choker of baroque pearls... a scarab bracelet set in gold... and a rhinestone pin selected on the basis of superior workmanship—a real fooler, you know... an assortment of velvet flowers in all colors to pin to a coat collar, the shoulder of a dress or the collar of a blouse... a cluster of ermine tails to dangle youthful and elegantly from a Peter Pan collar... handkerchiefs galore—plain, figured or lace edged, simply because everyone always needs them and there's nothing prettier for a small gift... stoles, because they're a necessity that's so close to being an affection they're reck of elegance... a complete hosiery wardrobe—service weights for hiking and working, Nylace for general practicality and sheers for truly dress up occasions... Russell Stover candies because who wants anyone's sweet tooth to ache with disappointment on Christmas?

If I could race from counter to counter and buy anything I like, I'd have a new Frigidaire refrigerator, shouting "Merry Christmas" to the kitchen... from the housewares department I'd select a complete set of Levere ware, a new General Electric toaster, cookie cutters in every shape and size, and ditto on moulds for salads and the like... I'd have a set of Golden Harvest dinner ware, and every possible size in our choicest glassware... I'd buy new shades for every lamp in the house, and a few new lamps besides... including those milk white beauties for the boudoir with the embroidered organdy ruffles... I'd buy enough cards for My Favorite Aunt, A Dear Friend, A Beloved Daughter, A Fine Little Son; enough Get Well Soon, Happy Birthday, Wedding Congratulations, and In-Sympathy cards to last an entire year so that I'd have absolutely no excuse for missing anyone on any of these varied occasions... I'd buy a Diary for 1954 and a Papermate pen to go with it, and insist that the recipient write something everyday... I'd select a dozen notebooks and reams of paper so that my boys would have no reason to say they just couldn't do their school work because... I'd present myself with a new Bible, and read some of it daily. That reading time would be at lunch hour, 'cause that's just the time of day one needs a spiritual as well as physical lift.

For a shutin who likes to keep busy, I'd invest in needlepoint and wool, remembering that "a thing of beauty is a joy forever."

For every expectant mother on my list there'd be an Evelyn Pearson bed jacket in quilted velvet, and for every brand new baby a cute pair of slippers with rattle faces on the toes... Every bride on my list would have a set of sterling and a beautiful linen or lace cloth on which to display it... And every sales person of my acquaintance would receive a hassock on which to relax feet and ankles at the end of a pre-Christmas work day. If only I could shop the way I choose!... Right now I can only invest in a paper of pins to prick this pretty balloon that doesn't exist anyway!

Pittsburgh Host To Best

Pittsburgh, (AP) — Pitt plays host Friday and Saturday to three of the nation's finest basketball teams in the third annual Steel Bowl Tournament.

Teams
Duquesne, ranked third in The Associated Press poll, meets Wake Forest and Pitt tangles with Bradley in the opening round.

The two winners will collide in the main event Saturday with the losers squaring off in the consolation contest.

Baseball Senator Talks With Justice Department Officials

Washington, (AP) — Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) had a lengthy conference with Justice Department officials yesterday, reportedly on the subject of baseball broadcasts.

Johnson, who is president of the Western League and also chairman of the minor leagues' radio-television committee, refused to say anything about the purpose of his visit as he left the department looking none too happy.

Asst. Attorney Gen. Stanley N. Barnes, in charge of the anti-trust division, received Johnson in the company of a number of anti-trust attorneys. He sent out word, in response to an inquiry, that he was doing "no talking about baseball."

Identified
Johnson has been prominently identified with the baseball group which favors more stringent restrictions on the telecasting and radio broadcasting of major league games, so that the minors might build up attendance.

The Justice Department has had a long-standing investigation of the baseball broadcasting question on the theory that some of the present restrictions might transgress the anti-trust laws.

Nightcap
In the nightcap, Phil Rollins and Corky Cox, a pair of dead-eye guards, paced Louisville to a 87-86 victory over Manhattan. Rollins, a sophomore with devastating push shot from far out, scored 28 points while Cox, a two-hand set artist, pressed 22.

Pressed through the first half, Louisville broke open the game with a 27 point outburst in the third quarter and continued to pour it on through the final 10 minutes.

Dykes Stops Longoria

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Dykes, 159, Miami, stopped Tim Longoria, 160, Houston, Tex., in 1:47 of the seventh round in a scheduled 10-rounder at the City Auditorium last night.

Cut Eye
The end came when Dykes nailed Longoria with a right over the left eye, ripping open a cut he had opened in the third. Referee Pete Sarron called in the ring physician, who allowed Longoria to continue.

The Texan cut loose with a flurry but Dykes fought his way out of it and then nailed Longoria twice over the left eye to drape him over the ropes and Sarron stopped the fight.

Turpin Goes Before Board Of Control

London, (AP) — "Randy" Turpin goes before the British Boxing Board of Control today to tell why he cut such strange capers before his world title fight with "Bobo" Olson in New York last October.

Indication
Early returns indicate many London fight writers and followers expect the former world middleweight champion to get only a light wrist slapping from BBBC stewards.

Indiana Nips Kentucky In Cage Poll

New York (AP) — Only Indiana will overshadow Kentucky's return to basketball power this winter in the opinion of the nation's experts in The Associated Press pre-season poll announced yesterday.

The rip-roaring Wildcats are back after being benched for one year by the Southeastern Conference for over-emphasis on basketball. And the word from Lexington is that their fans can expect no mercy.

Kentucky drew 52 first place votes from the 148 sports writers and sports casters who took part in the preview balloting. Indiana was named first on 48 ballots but drew heavily on second and third place nominations to edge out the Wildcats in the final tally 1,264 points to 1,194. A first place vote was worth 10 points, second was worth nine and on down the line.

The experts figured the basketball power of the nation will lie in a triangle whose points are at Bloomington, Ind., Lexington, Ky., and Pittsburgh. They chose the Dukes of Duquesne as the third best team by a comfortable margin over the perennial contenders from Oklahoma A&M.

Rounding out the top 10 are Kansas, last year's finalist in the NCAA tournament won by Indiana; LaSalle, North Carolina State, Kansas State, Illinois and Louisiana State. Kansas is the only team among the leaders which has yet to open its season. The Jayhawks start with a pair against Tulane later this week.

New Faces

Four of the teams from the final top 10 of last season failed to place anywhere among the first 20 this time. The most notable absentee is Seton Hall, winner of New York's National Invitation Tournament in 1953 and ranked second in the country. Seton Hall lost All-America Walt Dukes and his feeder, Richie Regan, and the experts figured that was enough to drop from sight.

The other missing clubs are Washington, number four; St. John's of Brooklyn, number seven; and Notre Dame, number 10.

The second 10 in the preview poll is a real edition of new faces with seven teams listed which didn't rate a mention in last season's final poll.

One of the outstanding newcomers is Oregon State, picked 13th, which features seven foot three inch Swede Halbrook, the tallest player ever seen in collegiate ranks. OSC faces a tough road, meeting Indiana twice this month before plunging into the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N. C., during the Christmas holidays.

The second 10: Western Kentucky, Minnesota, Oregon State, Wyoming, Dayton, Santa Clara, California, St. Louis and tie between Oklahoma City and Holy Cross.

Others receiving 10 or more points included St. John's of Brooklyn, Fordham, and Niagara.

Barrett, Pocono Fives Suffer Setbacks

Greene-Dreher Notches Win Number Two

Barrett — Greene-Dreher Sterling High school withstood a last quarter rally by Barrett here last night to earn a thrilling 38-35 victory over the host aggregation.

It was the second win in three outings for the Stags, while Barrett now has a mark of one victory and the same number of setbacks.

Barrett gained a measure of revenge by taking the measure of the GDS yearlings in the preliminary tussle, 33-20.

Greene-Dreher overcame a four-point deficit at the end of the first period and constructed its winning margin in the second and third rounds.

Rally Fails
Barrett fought back desperately in the last period with a 12-9 edge, but time ran out and the Stags had protected their lead.

The visiting five deadlocked Barrett at halftime, 17-17, and then picked up its winning margin in the third period with a 12-6 bulge in the scoring.

Barrett made nine of 19 shots from the foul line, while Greene-Dreher hit on 10 of 23 tosses from the same distance.

Kinsley, Sapp Pull Coolbaugh To Victory

Tannersville — Jim Kinsley and Andy Sapp led Coolbaugh High through the second and fourth quarters in high scoring fashion and to a 51-36 victory over Pocono High here last night in a non-league meeting of the Monroe County foes.

Pocono saved some face by easily winning the junior varsity encounter, 46-15.

The loss was the first of the season for Pocono, to go with a single win, while Coolbaugh now has two victories and one setback.

Three Periods

Coolbaugh actually held the upper hand in all but the third quarter, as the green and white clad charges of Coach Don Wismer picked up an 8-5 lead at the end of the first period and were on the long end of a 22-11 count at halftime. The visiting five dominated the second round, 14-6.

Pocono came back to reduce its deficit by two points in the third quarter by holding a 15-13 advantage, but Coolbaugh led the contest in the last period, 16-10.

Andy Sapp registered 20 points and Kinsley 19 in a winning cause, while Tom Williams and Bob Hallet, each with 11 markers, paced the losing point production.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Although basketball season is well underway, I think maybe some local people would like to know a little of the background on the "Little Brown Jug," the copper-colored piece of hardware that Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High school battle for each year in a Thanksgiving Day football game. Although I know little about the past history, I do know enough, thanks to some literature at my elbow, to occupy a paragraph or two and thus enlighten many fans on its past record. The local "Jug" was presented to the two schools by Marty Baldwin, local sportsman.

Baldwin, a graduate of the University of Michigan, picked up the idea while in college. Annually Michigan and Minnesota battle for the original "Little Brown Jug," purchased in the year 1905 by Thomas "Tommy" Roberts, student manager of the 1903 Wolverines. The time worn trophy actually cost 36 cents and was obtained in a Minnesota store. It was purchased when officials of the Michigan team decided they wanted a container for drinking water. This season's clash between Michigan and Minnesota marked the 50th anniversary of the original "Little Brown Jug."

Three of Michigan's 1903 varsity were spectators at this season's encounter with Minnesota, that is in addition to Roberts. The trio included John S. Curtis, Kansas City; Herbert S. Graver, Chicago, and Fred S. Norcross, Menominee, Mich. Roberts is a resident of Oak Park, Illinois. Minnesota recaptured the "Little Brown Jug" this season for the first time since 1934. The "Jug" is tradition at Michigan and Minnesota and has also become tradition in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

Stroudsburg won the prize the first seven years it was in existence, but East Stroudsburg bounced back the past two campaigns to notch its trophy. The "Jug" was put up by Baldwin in 1945, the first season that Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg enlisted on the gridiron. The "Little Brown Jug" is now in safe keeping at the N. Courtland St. school for the balance of the present year, but it will be up for grabs next Thanksgiving Day and for many Thanksgiving Days in the future.

Although the crowd in the East Stroudsburg High gymnasium was small last night, it certainly was one of the noisiest I've seen in that gymnasium in recent years. Both sides did a great job of shooting fouls under the noisy conditions. The contest was a thriller from start to finish, with the more experienced Alumni quintet winning out in overtime. There were at least two times late in the contest when the fans were completely confused as to what was happening on the court.

Present Alumni basketball teams differ from those in the old days in that most of the players are now in shape. Most of the former graduates, especially when Alumni action is limited to graduates of the past five years, are in almost as good condition as the scholastic cagers, due to the fact that most are with town teams and with YMCA and club organizations. I for one like the idea of crew haircuts for basketball players, such as those on the East Stroudsburg club. In fact, I think all athletes should have their hair cut short.

Short hair cuts offer less damage to the scalp from constant showering and in general is much better for the health of the individual. The Cavaliers, those of the basketball court, have grown greatly during the past year and are almost certain to have a much better campaign than last year, although several glaring faults were in evidence last night, as the high school youngsters fell before their older townmen. Stroudsburg High was well represented in the audience last night. The Stroudsburg-Allentown cage struggle last night was broadcast over radio station WAEB, 790 on the dial.

The Blue Mountain Basketball League is featuring several very good officials, including Steve Honzo, one of the officials in the high school championship contest last spring. Honzo also works high school cage games in this area. If spectators parking for area basketball games would be more careful in what position they leave their cars, everyone concerned would be happier. At a recent contest no fewer than two streets were blocked, one so badly that it was impossible to pass.

George Pfister, former manager of the Hazleton entry in the class "D" North Atlantic League, was recently released as pilot of Pueblo, of the class "A" Western League. Pfister, who also served as bullpen catcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1952, was an active receiver when he managed Hazleton. Harry Warner, big first sacker in the Milwaukee Braves' farm system, was presented with a fancy dressed doll at a recent gathering of the Pocomo Grange. Some guys are just lucky, I guess.

Alumni Downs East Stroudsburg In Overtime, 53-52

Cavaliers Miss Chances To Triumph

Three field goals in a fast moving overtime period carried the Alumni to a 53-52 victory over East Stroudsburg High school last night, in the first game of the season for the scholastic quintet. A small, but noisy crowd attended the contest in the N. Courtland St. gymnasium.

The two teams were deadlocked at 47-all at the end of regulation play, thanks to a foul conversion by Don Herman right at the final buzzer.

Eastburg nursed a 46-45 advantage into the closing minute, but with 15 seconds remaining on the clock Dick Pennington zipped the cords with a set shot from about 20 feet out, giving the visiting Alumni five a 47-46 edge. Herman then made his first of two charity tosses to tie the count.

Herman actually had a chance to win the game, but the second charity toss bounced away from the rim.

Jack Sommers, Ray Steele and Harold Freeman took turns dipping field goals into the hoop in the overtime session, to offset a driving goal from the floor by Bob "Red" Kupiszewski and two foul shots by Paul Turner and another by Herman.

Turner was sent to the foul line to shoot three charity shots, just as the overtime session ended. Two of the shots were awarded for a personal foul and one for a technical infraction. Turner missed the second toss to take away all chances of victory.

The school kids led at the end of the first period, 13-12, but the graduates reached the halfway mark with a 28-24 advantage.

Alumni victory hopes were high at the end of the third period, 40-37, but a 10-7 advantage during the final eight minutes of play enabled the scholastic charges of Coach Dick Foster to tie the count.

The Alumni made good on 21 of 27 foul shots, while the Cavaliers hit the nets from the same distance on 16 of 22 charity tosses.

Sommers, Steele and Jim Fritz led the Alumni attack with 13, 12 and 11 points respectively, while Kupiszewski and Bill Pensyl had hot hands for the high school five, 14-10.

Red Sox, Senators Break Famine In Trading

By Jack Hand
New York, (AP) — Washington traded Jackie Jensen to Boston

In a major three-man deal yesterday, Commissioner Ford Frick awarded 18-year-old Ralph Terry to the New York Yankees, and the major leagues clammed up on the pension plan hassle.

Jensen, a fleet, strong-armed outfielder with good power who hit 10 homers and drove in 84 runs for Washington despite a disappointing .266 average, went to the Red Sox for left-handed pitcher Maury McDermott (18-10) and outfielder Tom Umphlett. Umphlett surprised with a .283 rookie season.

The Washington-Boston swap was expected to break the log jam that has blocked trades throughout the winter baseball meetings. Washington is interested in more trades and looked toward the Yankees' crop of young talent. With McDermott in the fold, the Senators could talk business with Cleveland or New York.

Michael's Sold
The Philadelphia A's sold second baseman Cass Michaels to the Chicago White Sox, where he played for several years. No price was announced but it was believed close to the $10,000 waiver limit for the 27-year-old infielder.

Commissioner Frick decided Terry, a right-handed pitcher from Chelsea, Okla., who reportedly agreed to terms with both the Yankees and St. Louis Cards on the same day, belonged to the Yankees. He said Terry's acceptance of terms and the subsequent confirmation by the Yankees predated his signing a contract with Omaha, St. Louis firm in the Western League.

The pension hassle was strictly a "no comment" case as far as the majors were concerned, pending action at today's joint meeting scheduled for 10 a.m. at the Biltmore Hotel.

"We can make no announcement on the player demands because they will be a subject of joint action at tomorrow's meeting," explained Earl Hilligan, American League publicity director. The player demands range from comparatively minor matters such as uniform meal money to increases in minimum pay from $5,000 to $7,500 and higher benefits and lower age limit for the pension.

Of course, the main controversy centers around the resolution passed by the Major League Executive Council, September 29, recommending a two-man committee study the procedure for ending the pension plan.

Commissioner Frick said he called the 16-player representatives to Atlanta last week to discuss this resolution. He was rebuffed when the players refused to talk unless their lawyer, J. Norman Lewis, could be present. After the players walked out, Frick for the first time publicly disclosed the existence of the resolution.

Denial
Both Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds, the two league player representatives, denied they voted for the resolution at the September 29 council meeting. Their lawyer, who was present during part of the meeting, also said the players took no action.

Frick reiterated yesterday, as he said Monday, the players were present and voted "Yes" for the resolution to be discussed tomorrow at the joint session. "That is a matter of record of the minutes of the meeting," said Frick.

Down in Oklahoma City, Reynolds said, "We didn't vote for any such plan. In the first place, we have no vote in the executive council."

Frick said Monday the players do have a vote in matters concerning player-owner relations.

The American League did take action on night ball. President Will Harridge asked the clubs not to schedule twilight-night doubleheaders. The league passed a rule making it illegal for a club to play a night game on "glutway night" the final game of a series if either club was scheduled to play a day game the next afternoon.

March Dates Set For NIT At Garden

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

New York, (AP) — The Metropolitan Interscholastic Basketball Association yesterday set March 6, 8, 9, 11 and 13 as the date for the 1954 National Invitation Tournament as various eastern college athletic groups held meetings preliminary to the Eastern College Athletic Conference convention.

The tournament will be held, as usual, in New York's Madison Square Garden. A five-man selection committee was named to select the teams for the post-season tournament.

This action indicated there will be no change in plans for the oldest post-season basketball tournament in spite of indications that the National Collegiate Association may oppose, or even forbid, participation in tournaments except the NCAA championships.

Report

The NCAA, which now rules that a team can't play in another post-season tournament in addition to its own championship, will deal with a report which recommends further limits on the playing season at its January meeting.

The selection committee will be composed of James V. Gilbon Jr. of NYU, Walter T. McLaughlin of St. John's, Herbert Sutter of Wagner, Josh Cody of Temple and Harry J. Rockefeller of Rutgers. McLaughlin was re-elected president of the association.

Election of officers and approval of dates and sites for 1954 and 1955 meets were the principal actions taken at most of yesterday's separate meetings. The ECAC Television Committee held an all-day session to draw up its report and a resolution to be presented at Friday's convention meeting, but the contents of the report was not revealed.

Six Well Known Fighters Using Farm Near Columbia As Training Base For Future Bouts

Columbia, N. J. — Five well known boxers are currently training here and a sixth arrives on the scene today, as this small New Jersey community receives a wholesale taste of the modern fight game.

The fighters, well known to all television fans, are currently going through their paces at Harry's Farm, owned by Harry Friedman.

Those pugilists currently on hand are Paddy Young, Joe Micelli, Tony Anthony, Dick Wagner and Clarence "Panama" Sampson. Hein Ten Hoff, former German heavyweight champion and currently on a winning streak here in the United States, arrives on the scene today to open training for a future bout.

Wagner, a veteran light heavyweight campaigner from Portland, Ore., is currently wading up his training chores and will take on Floyd Patterson, of Olympic fame, at New York's Eastern Parkway Arena on Monday. Wagner, a light heavyweight, has spoiled the ambitions of many youngsters in recent years and will be one of the toughest foes to have appeared against Patterson in the latter's short career.

Young is also drawing near the end of his training grind, as the likeable middleweight is scheduled to clash with Billy Graham a week from Friday, in Madison Square Garden.

Micelli is a well known welterweight who has fought some of the best in the division, including Johnny Bratton, who until just recently was the number one challenger for "Kid" Gavilan's crown.

Anthony is a promising middleweight who first drew attention in the recent Olympic games, while Sampson is fresh from successes in South and Central America.

Ten Hoff is currently coasting along on a string of five straight knockout victories since coming to the United States.

Harry Stievens is in charge of the training camp and personally manages Micelli, Young and Anthony.

Stievens reports that the fighters workout every afternoon and that the public is invited to attend the various drills.

Current plans call for the training camp now in operation to be set up as a permanent fixture.

Turner Slight Favorite Over Castellani Tonight

Cleveland, (AP) — "Rocky" Castellani and Gil Turner, each hoping to earn a crack at Middleweight Champion "Bobo" Olson, meet tonight in a scheduled 10-round televised bout at Cleveland News' 28th annual Toy Shop Fund boxing show. Willie Troy of Washington, D. C., and Tuzo Portuquez of Costa Rica will go into a 10-rounder in the 160-pound class as a co-feature.

Although Castellani is considered the number two middleweight contender, Turner is a slight favorite in the betting odds. He is the number four contender. Britisher Randy Turpin, who lost recently to Olson, is the number one contender.

Weight Trouble

The 27-year-old Castellani, now fighting out of Cleveland, has been having a little trouble with his weight. His contract calls for him to weigh in today at 157 pounds and he found after sparring eight rounds last week that he was right at that weight.

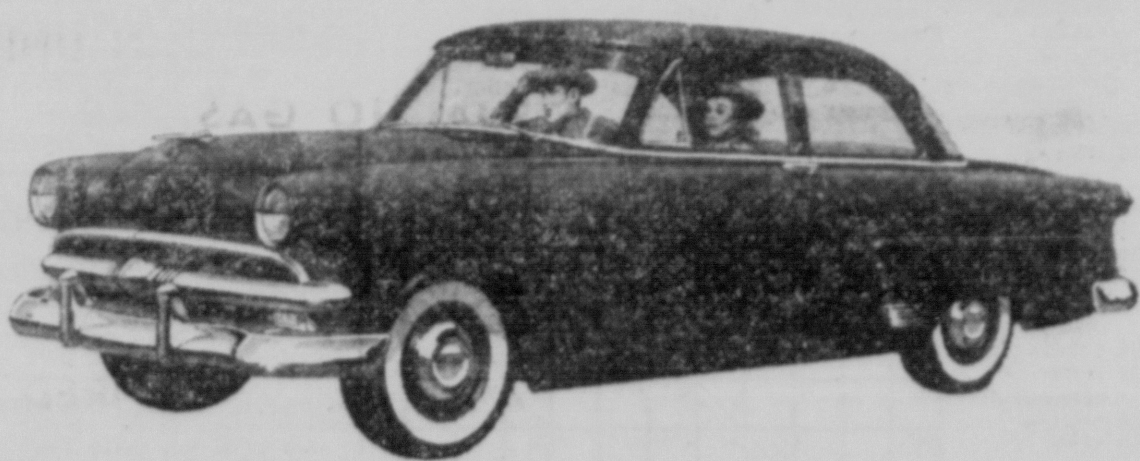

He has an overall record of 46 victories, five defeats and two draws, and is 7-1 so far this year.

Turner, a 23-year-old Philadelphia, goes into tonight's fray with a 1953 record of eight triumphs and one defeat. He has an overall record of 41-3.

The bout tonight will be carried over the Columbia Broadcasting System television network at 10 p. m., (EST).

Pocono Garden Club Ends Year With Yuletide Banquet

Tannersville. Small red Christmas candles on wooden stands trimmed with pine and cones marked each place at the annual banquet of the Pocono Garden Club held last night at Mount Airy Lodge, Swiftwater.

Mrs. Millard Rice, president, greeted the members and their husbands and staff of officers. She also presented the new president, Mrs. Ruth Learn, who in turn introduced her officers: Mrs. Charles Beseker, vice president; Mrs. Donald Hartman, secretary; and Mrs. Floyd DeHaven, treasurer.

A gift from the club in appreciation for her two terms of service was presented to Mrs. Rice by Mrs. Marjorie Canfield, who also served as program chairman.

The program featured the Decemettes of Stroudsburg High School under the direction of Numa Snyder, who sang two groups of songs including "Night Song," "Song of the Metronome," and a group of Christmas songs, the Burgundian carol, "Patapan," the Crusader's hymn, "Beautiful Saviour," "Bring a Torch, Jeanette Isabella," and "In Bethlehem's Lowly Manger."

Between the carols, Mrs. Grant Knowles presented a series of humorous dramatizations, and pantomimes including the "Romance of Billy Mugwump," and "Anniversary Celebration," and was warmly applauded. Walter Sebring led the group carols.

A display of Christmas wreaths, mantel decorations and table arrangements by the members was judged by Arthur Ifft and Miss Margaret MacLaren. Awards went to Mrs. Donald Hartman and Mrs. Millard Rice, first; Mrs. Clyde White, Mrs. Robert Layton and Mrs. Haviland Heller, seconds; and Mrs. Charles Beseker, third.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

This is the singingest time of the year and every organization is vying to have the young people come and sing for them. The youngsters not only sing sweet, but they look pretty, too, so that any meeting is a success with them there.

It's a killing schedule though the ES Elementary Chorus sang last night for the Music Club, and members were still aching over how sweet they looked with their holiday bows and colorful vests and pretty songbooks with the Christmas streamers. The Woman's Club will be hearing them next week.

The SHS Madrigal Singers had their night on Monday at the WSCS and Gradale; and the Decemettes last night with Laurel Court and the Pocono Garden Club. Incidentally, the Decemettes look pretty decorative, too, in those new outfits—white flannel blazers with maroon ascots and maroon skirts and they sing as fine as they look.

Which reminds me that this is also the eating-est time of the year, too. That Pocono Garden Club banquet, wow. Baked Alaska and some very unusual Christmas cookies for dessert. I saw all those specialists in Christmas cookies sampling them, with a considerable air, testing the ingredients to see if they could duplicate them, I'll bet.

Oh yes, and I heard Mrs. Grant Knowles do some of her famous dramatizations, and now I know why she's in such demand at the Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Aux., and the Progressive Woman's Club and all the rest.

You know I think that's why I enjoy these annual Pocono dinners so much, because I get a chance to match up the faces with the names that keep appearing in so many of the community activities up there. Pretty nice faces, too.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:15 a.m.

Music, Play At Hospital Auxiliary Tea

The Christmas Tea and Musicale of the General Hospital Auxiliary filled the home of Mrs. E. H. Wyckoff on Thomas St., with members, guests and music yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Gilbert Barthold welcomed the group, including the members of the Ann Logan and Barrett Hospital Societies. She announced that the date of this year's hospital benefit has been set for February 26 in the college auditorium when the Community Chorus will present "The Emperor's New Clothes." Dr. Nina Mae Price was announced as a new member.

Members and guests brought gifts which are to be distributed to the patients at the hospital on Christmas Day. The Ann Logan Society invited those present to attend their annual Christmas party next Monday night.

The program opened with group carols, and included two readings by Mrs. Clifford Cramer. The first was a dramatic dialogue, and the second was a story "Bells of Christmas." Beulah Stright McConnell was soloist and sang three numbers, "Christmas Candles," "Slumber Song of the Madonna" and "The Sleigh." Miss Bess Gardner was accompanist.

Following the program tea was served by Mrs. Wyckoff, assisted by Mrs. Harry Albert with Mrs. Joseph Noonan and Mrs. Barthold presiding at the tea table, bright with Christmas decorations.

Holiday Decorations For Homemakers

The members of the Home Economics Extension Clubs of the county will combine for their annual Christmas party on Wednesday at the firehall in Mount Pocono. This is the first time that the Mount Pocono women have played hosts to the group, Miss Margaret MacLaren, county leader, said.

However, in case of icy weather on Route 611, the Christmas party and tea will be held at the municipal building in Stroudsburg.

Everyone is invited to the meeting when each of the adult clubs will display Christmas decorations and specialties. A special feature will be a demonstration of cake and cookie decoration by Mrs. Donald Hartman of Bartonsville. The party will be held from 1:30 to 5 p.m.

Madrigal Singers, Brass Ensemble In WSCS Program

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church had special music for their Christmas meeting on Monday night, as well as special decorations in the parish hall.

Mrs. Roger Stinson and her daughter, Barbara, conducted the devotions, basing them on a family custom of the Advent Season observed in parts of Germany. The advent wreath, placed on the dining room table, had four white candles, each to be lit by a child of the family on the four Sundays of Advent. As the candles are lit, the children receive Scripture Stars which have verses referring to the birth of Christ. The candle is lit at each evening meal and the Scripture verses are read until all four of the advent candles have been lighted. Barbara wore a German dress sent to her last Christmas by her older brother, The advent wreath was made by Paul Heller of Broad St.

The Brass Sextette from the Stroudsburg High School played a selection with Ernest Michelfelder, Thomas Metzger, Margaret Denning, John Hiller, Philip Newman and Floyd Frisbie taking part. A trombone quartet composed of Donald Hickey, John Hiller, Robert Haigh and Richard Swingle, played several numbers. The Madrigal Singers of the High School presented a group of Christmas carols. The Madrigal Singers this year include Sandra Bolch, Susan Nietsch, Mary Frances Frankfield and Ann Shafer, Lauren Flagler, Martha Williams, Kay Shook and Nancy Learn; Donald Garaventi, Thomas Metzger, Robert Staples and Robert Moyer; and Sam Budge, Robert Wildrick, Kenneth Lee and John Willhoite.

The business meeting was followed by a tea with Mrs. Stinson, and Mrs. Kathryn Stiff, president, presiding at the tea table. Mrs. Paul Shiffer and Mrs. Harold Hilbrandt were chairmen of the hostess committee.

Secret Pal Club

The Secret Pal Club of the Women of the Moose will meet on Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Frances Adams, 22 Third St., Stroudsburg, when pals will exchange Christmas presents. It was announced that Mrs. Gladys Mink had won the attendance prize at the last meeting.

"It's a dreadful nuisance trying to suit gifts to people," one of our customers mourned the other afternoon. "I'd much rather buy the things I like and find people to suit them."

Most of us have shared this feeling at times, I imagine—and have stopped also to consider what a wonderful joy it would be to go shopping just one Christmas, able to buy anything that appealed.

If ever this should happen to me, I'm almost certain I'd have a sleigh full of such exciting items as these, to be found right now in my favorite store—a copper tea kettle trimmed in brass, just the right size for making a friendly "spot of tea" on a winter afternoon...

the biggest bottle of perfume in the store, fragrance notwithstanding just so long as it looks and smells exciting... the handsomest manicure set in the case for the most fastidious woman of my acquaintance... a choker of baroque pearls... a scarab bracelet set in gold, and a rhinestone pin selected on the basis of superior workmanship—a real fooler, you know... an assortment of velvet flowers in all colors to pin to a coat collar, the shoulder of a dress or the collar of a blouse... a cluster of ermine tails to dangle youthful and elegantly from under a Peter Pan collar... handkerchiefs galore—plain, figured or lace edged, simply because everyone always needs them and there's nothing prettier for a small gift... stoles, because they're a necessary that's so close to being an affection that they're of elegance... a complete hosiery wardrobe—service weights for hiking and working, Nylace for general practicality and sheers for truly dress up occasions... Russell Stover candies because who wants anyone's sweet tooth to ache with disappointment on Christmas?

If I could race from counter to counter and buy anything I like, I'd have a new Frigidaire refrigerator, shouting "Merry Christmas" to the kitchen... from the housewares department I'd select a complete set of Revere ware, a new General Electric toaster, cookie cutters in every shape and size, and ditto on moulds for salads and the like... I'd have a set of Golden Harvest dinner ware, and every possible size in our choicest glassware... I'd buy new shades for every lamp in the house, and a few new lamps besides—including those milk white beauties for the boudoir with the embroidered organdy ruffles... I'd buy enough cards for My Favorite Aunt, A Dear Friend, A Beloved Daughter, A Fine Little Son; enough Get Well Soon, Happy Birthday, Wedding Congratulations, and In-Sympathy cards to last an entire year so that I'd have absolutely no excuse for missing anyone on any of these varied occasions... I'd buy a Diary for 1954 and a Papermate pen to go with it, and insist that the recipient write something everyday... I'd select a dozen notebooks and reams of paper so that my boys would have no reason to say they just couldn't do their school work because... I'd present myself with a new Bible, and read some of it daily. That reading time would be at lunch hour, 'cause that's just the time of day one needs a spiritual as well as physical lift.

For a shuftin who likes to keep busy, I'd invest in needlepoint and book, remembering that "a thing of beauty is a joy forever."... For every expectant mother in my list there'd be an Evelyn Pearson bed jacket in quilted velvet, and for every brand new baby a cute pair of slippers with rattle faces on the toes... Every bride on my list would have a set of sterling and a beautiful linen or lace cloth on which to display it... And every sales person of my acquaintance would receive a hawsock on which to relax feet and ankles at the end of a pre-Christmas work day. If only I could shop the way I choose!... Right now I can only invest in a paper of pins to prick this pretty balloon that doesn't exist anyway!

Monday Night Set For Use Of Building

Cresco—Barrett school board members have set Monday night as "Community Night" for use of the township school building.

Action was taken at the board's annual reorganizational meeting Monday night in the high school here.

Board members decided at the meeting that the school "should be made available for the use of community organizations on Monday night of each week when school is in session."

This practice, resulting in what the board calls "Community Night," will give Barrett civic groups and service clubs an opportunity to use the school auditorium and other facilities.

No charge will be made for the use of the building on Monday nights during the school term, the board said. Members expressed the belief that the new practice would serve as a benefit to the entire community.

All organizations wishing to use the school building should contact the office of the supervising principal to make arrangements for a meeting room or other available facilities, the board said.

The plan will go into effect after the first of January, according to the system drawn up by the board.

In other actions at this week's meeting, the board changed its regular meeting night from the second Tuesday to the second Monday of each month. Next regular meeting of the board will be held on Monday, Jan. 11, 1954.

The board reelected Harry J. Drennan president and Theodore Vernoy vice president for 1954.

Bills in the amount of $9,270.90 were approved for payment.

Members in attendance were Drennan, Vernoy, Irwin Shinn, Earl Rose, Reed Siglin, and non-members were Mrs. Helen Miller, secretary, and Andrew W. Lewis, supervising principal.

Stroudsburg High Falls Before Allentown's Power, 72-41

Canaries Too Strong In Opening Game

Allentown — Stroudsburg High opened its 1953-1954 basketball season here at the Little Palestra last night by absorbing a 72-41 setback at the hands of the famed Allentown Canaries. It was also the initial outing of the campaign for the host club.

The Canaries made a clean sweep of the program by winning the junior varsity encounter, 82-25. Stroudsburg, vastly less experienced than the Canaries, held their own during the first period, but the Mountaineers were unable to stand the constant pressure of the stronger East Penn League entry, although Allentown was able to dominate the third stanza by only three points.

Blairtown Junior High rolled over Stroudsburg Junior High in a basketball game at Stroudsburg High yesterday afternoon, 35-8. The visiting club led from start to finish.

A total of 24 players were used in the contest, 14 by the Canaries and 10 by Stroudsburg, playing its initial game under Coach Johnny Kupiec.

Advantage

Allentown stepped out in front at the end of the first period, 16-9, and reached the halfway mark on the long end of a 34-16 count.

The Mountaineers finished on the short end of a 17-14 count in the third quarter, but Allentown put on the gas in the last frame, 21-11, to win by a margin of 31 points.

Dick Little and Dave Nevil paced the Stroudsburg attack with 13 and 10 points, respectively, while every member of the Allentown club broke into the scoring column for at least one point.

John Mascali, ace center, was high scorer for Allentown with 15 points, although his amount of play was limited during the course of the ball game.

The Mountaineers return to action on Saturday, when they tangle with Phillipsburg High, on the latter's home court.

Rickey Hopes To Make Deal

New York (AP) — General Manager Branch Rickey of the Pittsburgh Pirates, here for the annual major league meeting, said yesterday he has a "fine chance of completing a deal in the near future."

Rickey, who undoubtedly is trying to improve the club in an effort to hoist it from the National League cellar, would not comment further on the deal.

Story
A source close to Rickey, however, said he is considering a trade with the Philadelphia Phillies which would bring third baseman Willie Jones to the Pirates in exchange for pitcher Murray Dickson and outfielder Hal Rice. The source said the Pirates would also pick up some cash in the deal.

Famous Little Leaguer Dies

Mesquite, Texas, (AP) — Ronald Sunderman, 12-year-old Stamford, Conn., Little League baseball player whose courageous fight against cancer tugged last summer at the hearts of sports lovers everywhere, died yesterday.

Message
Weakened by the illness last summer, Ronnie turned in his Little League baseball uniform to the Lions Club management with the suggestion that it be given "to a healthy boy who would do the team more good."

Pittsburgh Host To Best

Pittsburgh, (AP) — Pitt plays host Friday and Saturday to three of the nation's finest basketball teams in the third annual Steel Bowl Tournament.

Teams
Duquesne, ranked third in The Associated Press poll, meets Wake Forest and Pitt tangles with Bradley in the opening round.
The two winners will collide in the main event Saturday with the losers squaring off in the consolation contest.

BRINGING IT DOWN—Bill Pensyl, center for East Stroudsburg High school, is shown above bringing down a rebound in the first quarter of last night's basketball clash with the Alumni. Other members of the scholastic squad shown are Gene Van Gorden (9) and Bob "Red" Kupiszewski (10). ## Temple Deals Seton Hall Defeat, 73-59

New York (AP) — Temple's deliberate Owls handed Seton Hall its worst basketball defeat in two seasons last night, beating the 1953 National Invitation Tournament champions 73-59 in the first game of a Madison Square Garden college doubleheader.

Temple took command in the second minute of the game and from then on the Pirates from nearby East Orange, N.J., never had a chance.

It was a team job for the Philadelphia invaders.

Nightcap
In the nightcap, Phil Rollins and Corky Cox, a pair of dead-eye guards, paced Louisville to a '87-86 victory over Manhattan. Rollins, a sophomore with devastating push shot from far out, scored 28 points while Cox, a two-hand set artist, contributed 22.

Pressed through the first half, Louisville broke open the game with a 27 point outburst in the third quarter and continued to pour it on through the final 10 minutes.

Dykes Stops Longoria

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Dykes, 159, Miami, stopped Tino Longoria, 160, Houston, Tex., in 1:47 of the seventh round in a scheduled 10-rounder at the City Auditorium last night.

Cut Eye

The end came when Dykes nailed Longoria with a right over the left eye, ripping open a cut he had opened in the third. Referee Petey Sarron called in the ring physician, who allowed Longoria to continue.

The Texan cut loose with a flurry but Dykes fought his way out of it and then nailed Longoria twice over the left eye to drape him over the ropes and Sarron stopped the fight.

Turpin Goes Before Board Of Control

London, (AP) — "Randy" Turpin goes before the British Boxing Board of Control today to tell why he cut such strange capers before his world title fight with "Bobo" Olson in New York last October.

Indication
Early returns indicate many London fight writers and followers expect the former world middleweight champion to get only a light wrist slapping from BBBC stewards.

Indiana Nips Kentucky In Cage Poll

New York (AP) — Only Indiana will overshadow Kentucky's return to basketball power this winter in the opinion of the nation's experts in The Associated Press pre-season poll announced yesterday.

The rip-roaring Wildcats are back after being benched for one year by the Southeastern Conference for over-emphasis on basketball. And the word from Lexington is that their foes can expect no mercy.

Kentucky drew 52 first place votes from the 148 sports writers and sports casters who took part in the preview balloting. Indiana was named first on 48 ballots but drew heavily on second and third place nominations to edge out the Wildcats in the final tally 1,264 points to 1,194. A first place vote was worth 10 points, second was worth nine and on down the line.

The experts figured the basketball power of the nation will lie in a triangle whose points are at Bloomington, Ind., Lexington, Ky., and Pittsburgh. They chose the Dukes of Duquesne as the third best team by a comfortable margin over the perennial contenders from Oklahoma A&M.

Rounding out the top 10 are Kansas, last year's finalist in the NCAA tournament won by Indiana; LaSalle, North Carolina State, Kansas State, Illinois and Louisiana State. Kansas is the only team among the leaders which has yet to open its season. The Jayhawks start with a pair against Tulane later this week.

New Faces

Four of the teams from the final top 10 of last season failed to place anywhere among the first 20 this time. The most notable absentee is Seton Hall, winner of New York's National Invitation Tournament in 1953 and ranked second in the country. Seton Hall lost All-America Walt Duke and his feeder, Richie Regan, and the experts figured that was enough to drop from sight.

The other missing clubs are Washington, number four; St. John's of Brooklyn, number seven; and Notre Dame, number 10.

The second 10 in the preview poll is a real edition of new faces with seven teams listed which didn't rate a mention in last season's final poll.

One of the outstanding newcomers is Oregon State, picked 13th, which features seven foot three inch Swede Halbrook, the tallest player ever seen in collegiate ranks. OSC faces a tough road, meeting Indiana twice this month before plunging into the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N. C., during the Christmas holidays.

The second 10:
Western Kentucky, Minnesota, Oregon State, Wyoming, Dayton, Santa Clara, California, St. Louis and tie between Oklahoma City and Holy Cross.

Others receiving 10 or more points included St. John's of Brooklyn, Fordham, and Niagara.

Barrett, Pocono Fives Suffer Setbacks

Greene-Dreher Notches Win Number Two

Barrett — Greene-Dreher-Sterling High school withstood a last quarter rally by Barrett here last night to earn a thrilling 38-35 victory over the host aggregation.

It was the second win in three outings for the Stags, while Barrett now has a mark of one victory and the same number of setbacks.

Barrett gained a measure of revenge by taking the measure of the GDS yearlings in the preliminary tussle, 33-20.

Greene-Dreher overcame a four-point deficit at the end of the first period and constructed its winning margin in the second and third rounds.

Rally Fails

Barrett fought back desperately in the last period with a 12-9 edge, but time ran out and the Stags had protected their lead.

The visiting five deadlocked Barrett at halftime, 17-17, and then picked up its winning margin in the third period with a 12-6 bulge in the scoring.

Barrett made nine of 19 shots from the foul line, while Greene-Dreher hit on 10 of 23 tosses from the same distance.

Kinsley, Sapp Pull Coolbaugh To Victory

Tannersville — Jim Kinsley and Andy Sapp led Coolbaugh High through the second and fourth quarters in high scoring fashion and to a 51-36 victory over Pocono High here last night in a non-league meeting of the Monroe County fives.

Pocono saved some face by easily winning the junior varsity encounter, 46-15.

The loss was the first of the season for Pocono, to go with a single win, while Coolbaugh now has two victories and one setback.

Three Periods

Coolbaugh actually held the upper hand in all but the third quarter, as the green and white clad charges of Coach Don Wismer picked up an 8-5 lead at the end of the first period and were on the long end of a 22-11 count at halftime. The visiting five dominated the second round, 14-6.

Pocono came back to reduce its deficit by two points in the third quarter by holding a 15-13 advantage, but Coolbaugh led the contest in the last period, 16-10.

Andy Sapp registered 20 points, and Kinsley 19 in a winning cause, while Tom Williams and Bob Hallet, each with 11 markers, paced the losing point production.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Although basketball season is well underway, I think maybe some local people would like to know a little of the background on the "Little Brown Jug," the copper-colored piece of hardware that Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High school battle for each year in a Thanksgiving Day football game. Although I know little about the past history, I do know enough, thanks to some literature at my elbow, to occupy a paragraph or two and thus enlighten many fans on its past record. The local "Jug" was presented to the two schools by Marty Baldwin, local sportsman.

Baldwin, a graduate of the University of Michigan, picked up the idea while in college. Annually Michigan and Minnesota battle for the original "Little Brown Jug," purchased in the year 1903 by Thomas "Tommy" Roberts, student manager of the 1903 Wolverines. The time worn trophy actually cost 30 cents and was obtained in a Minnesota store. It was purchased when officials of the Michigan team decided they wanted a container for drinking water. This season's clash between Michigan and Minnesota marked the 50th anniversary of the original "Little Brown Jug."

Three of Michigan's 1903 varsity were spectators at this season's encounter with Minnesota. That is in addition to Roberts. The trio included John S. Curtis, Kansas City; Herbert S. Graver, Chicago, and Fred S. Norcross, Menominee, Mich. Roberts is a resident of Oak Park, Illinois. Minnesota captured the "Little Brown Jug" this season for the first time since 1934. The "Jug" is tradition at Michigan and Minnesota and has also become tradition in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

Stroudsburg won the prize the first seven years it was in existence, but East Stroudsburg bounced back the past two campaigns to notch its first and second leg on its trophy. The "Jug" was put up by Baldwin in 1945, the first season that Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg collided on the gridiron. The "Little Brown Jug" is now in safe keeping at the N. Courtland St. school for the balance of the present year, but it will be up for grabs next Thanksgiving Day and for many Thanksgiving Days in the future.

Although the crowd in the East Stroudsburg High gymnasium was small last night, it certainly was one of the noisiest I've seen in that gymnasium in recent years. Both sides did a great job of shooting fouls under the noisy conditions. The contest was a thriller from start to finish, with the more experienced Alumni quintet winning out in overtime. There were at least two times late in the contest when the fans were completely confused as to what was happening on the court.

Present Alumni basketball teams differ from those in the old days in that most of the players are now in shape. Most of the former graduates, especially when Alumni action is limited to graduates of the past five years, are in almost as good condition as the scholastic cagers, due to the fact that most are with town teams and with YMCA and club organizations. I for one like the idea of crew haircuts for basketball players, such as those on the East Stroudsburg club. In fact, I think all athletes should have their hair cut short.

Short hair cuts offer less damage to the scalp from constant showering and in general is much better for the health of the individual. The Cavaliers, those of the basketball court, have grown greatly during the past year and are almost certain to have a much better campaign than last year, although several glaring faults were in evidence last night, as the high school youngsters fell before their older townmen. Stroudsburg High was well represented in the audience last night. The Stroudsburg-Allentown cage struggle last night was broadcast over radio station WAEB, 790 on the dial.

The Blue Mountain Basketball League is featuring several very good officials, including Steve Houzo, one of the officials in the high school championship contest last spring. Houzo also works high school cage games in this area. If spectators parking for area basketball games would be more careful in what position they leave their cars, everyone concerned would be happier. At a recent contest no fewer than two streets were blocked, one so badly that it was impossible to pass.

George Pfister, former manager of the Hazleton entry in the class "D" North Atlantic League, was recently released as pilot of Pueblo, of the class "A" Western League. Pfister, who also served as bullpen catcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1952, was an active receiver when he managed Hazleton. Harry Warner, big first sacker in the Milwaukee Braves' farm system, was presented with a fancy dressed doll at a recent gathering of the Pocono Grange. Some guys are just lucky, I guess.

Alumni Downs East Stroudsburg In Overtime, 53-52

Cavaliers Miss Chances To Triumph

Three field goals in a fast moving overtime period carried the Alumni to a 53-52 victory over East Stroudsburg High school last night, in the first game of the season for the scholastic quintet. A small, but noisy crowd attended the contest in the N. Courtland St. gymnasium.

The two teams were deadlocked at 47-47 at the end of regulation play, thanks to a foul goal conversion by Don Herman right at the final buzzer.

Eastburg nursed a 46-45 advantage into the closing minute, but with 15 seconds remaining on the clock Dick Pennington zipped the cords with a set shot from about 20 feet out, giving the visiting Alumni five a 47-46 edge. Herman then made his first of two charity tosses to tie the count.

Herman actually had a chance to win the game, but the second charity toss bounced away from the rim.

Jack Sommers, Ray Steele and Harold Freeman took turns dipping field goals into the hoop in the overtime session, to offset a driving foul from the floor by Bob "Red" Kupiszewski and two foul shots by Paul Turner and another by Herman.

Almost . . . Turner was sent to the foul line to shoot three charity shots, just as the overtime session ended. Two of the shots were awarded for a personal foul and one for a technical infraction. Turner missed the second toss to take away all chances of victory.

The school kids led at the end of the first period, 13-12, but the graduates reached the halfway mark with a 28-24 advantage.

Alumni victory hopes were high at the end of the third period, 40-37, but a 10-7 advantage during the final eight minutes of play enabled the scholastic charges of Coach Dick Forster to tie the count.

The Alumni made good on 21 of 27 foul shots, while the Cavaliers hit the nets from the same distance on 16 of 22 charity tosses. Sommers, Steele and Jim Fritz led the Alumni attack with 13, 12 and 11 points respectively, while Kupiszewski and Bill Pensyl had hot hands for the high school five, 14-10.

Red Sox, Senators Break Famine In Trading

By Jack Hand
New York, (AP) — Washington traded Jackie Jensen to Boston

in a major three-man deal yesterday, Commissioner Ford Frick awarded 18-year-old Ralph Terry to the New York Yankees, and the major leagues clamored up on the pension plan hassle.

Jensen, a fleet, strong-armed outfielder with good power who hit 10 homers and drove in 84 runs for Washington despite a disappointing .266 average, went to the Red Sox for left-handed pitcher Maury McDermott (18-10) and outfielder Tom Umphlett. Umphlett surprised with a .283 rookie season.

The Washington-Boston swap was expected to break the log jam that has blocked trades throughout the winter baseball meetings.

Washington is interested in more trades and looked toward the Yankees' crop of young talent. With McDermott in the fold, the Senators could talk business with Cleveland or New York.

Michaelis Sold

The Philadelphia A's sold second baseman Cass Michaelis to the Chicago White Sox, where he played for several years. No price was announced but it was believed close to the $10,000 waiver limit for the 27-year-old infielder.

Commissioner Frick decided Terry, a right-handed pitcher from Chelsea, Okla., who reportedly agreed to terms with both the Yanks and St. Louis Cards on the same day, belonged to the Yankees. He said Terry's acceptance of terms and the subsequent confirmation by the Yanks predated his signing a contract with Omaha, St. Louis farm in the Western League.

The pension hassle was strictly a "no comment" case as far as the majors were concerned, pending action at today's joint meeting scheduled for 10 a.m. at the Biltmore Hotel.

"We can make no announcement on the player demands because they will be a subject of joint action at tomorrow's meeting," explained Earl Hilligan, American League publicity director. The player demands range from comparatively minor matters such as uniform meal money to increases in minimum pay from $5,000 to $7,500 and higher benefits and lower age limit for the pension.

Of course, the main controversy centers around the resolution passed by the Major League Executive Council, September 29, recommending a two-man committee study the procedure for ending the pension plan.

Commissioner Frick said he called the 16-player representatives to Atlanta last week to discuss this resolution. He was rebuffed when the players refused to talk unless their lawyer, J. Norman Lewis, could be present. After the players walked out, Frick for the first time publicly disclosed the existence of the resolution.

Denial

Both Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds, the two league player representatives, denied they voted for the resolution at the September 29 council meeting. Their lawyer, who was present during part of the meeting, also said the players took no action.

Frick reiterated yesterday, as he said Monday, the players were present and voted "Yes" for the resolution to be discussed tomorrow at the joint session. "That is a matter of record of the minutes of the meeting," said Frick.

Down in Oklahoma City, Reynolds said, "We didn't vote for any such plan. In the first place, we have no vote in the executive council."

Frick said Monday the players do have a vote in matters concerning player-owner relations.

The American League did take action on night ball. President Will Harridge asked the clubs not to schedule twilight-night doubleheaders. The league passed a rule making it illegal for a club to play a night game on "getaway night" the final game of a series if either club was scheduled to play a day game the next afternoon.

March Dates Set For NIT At Garden

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

New York, (AP) — The Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association yesterday set March 6, 8, 9, 11 and 13 as the date for the 1954 National Invitation Tournament as various eastern college athletic groups held meetings preliminary to the Eastern College Athletic Conference convention.

The tournament will be held, as usual, in New York's Madison Square Garden. A five-man selection committee was named to select the teams for the post-season tournament.

This action indicated there will be no change in plans for the oldest post-season basketball tournament in spite of indications that the National Collegiate Athletic Association may oppose, or even forbid, participation in tournaments except the NCAA championships.

Report

The NCAA, which now rules that a team can't play in another post-season tournament in addition to its own championship, will deal with a report which recommends further limits on the playing season at its January meeting.

The selection committee will be composed of James V. Gilloon Jr. of NYU, Walter T. McLaughlin of St. John's, Herbert Sutter of Wagner, Josh Cody of Temple and Harry J. Rockafeller of Rutgers. McLaughlin was re-elected president of the association.

Election of officers and approval of dates and sites for 1954 and 1955 meets were the principal actions taken at most of yesterday's separate meetings. The ECAC Television Committee held an all-day session to draw up its report and a resolution to be presented at Friday's convention meeting, but the contents of the report was not revealed.

Six Well Known Fighters Using Farm Near Columbia As Training Base For Future Bouts

Columbia, N. J. — Five well known boxers are currently training here and a sixth arrives on the scene today, as this small New Jersey community receives a wholesale taste of the modern fight game.

The fighters, well known to all television fans, are currently going through their paces at Harry's Farm, owned by Harry Friedman.

Those pugilists currently on hand are Paddy Young, Joe Micelli, Tony Anthony, Dick Wagner and Clarence "Panama" Sampson. Hein Ten Hoff, former German heavyweight champion and currently on a winning streak here in the United States, arrives on the scene today to open training for a future bout.

Wagner, a veteran light heavyweight campaigner from Portland, Ore., is currently widing up his training chores and will take on Floyd Patterson, of Olympic fame, at New York's Eastern Parkway Arena on Monday. Wagner, a light heavyweight, has spoiled the ambitions of many youngsters in recent years and will be one of the toughest foes to have appeared against Patterson in the latter's short career.

Young is also drawing near the end of his training grind, as the likeable middleweight is scheduled to clash with Billy Graham a week from Friday, in Madison Square Garden.

Micelli is a well known welterweight who has fought some of the best in the division, including Johnny Bratton, who until just recently was the number one challenger for "Kid" Gavilan's crown.

Anthony is a promising middleweight who first drew attention in the recent Olympic games, while Sampson is fresh from successes in South and Central America.

Ten Hoff is currently coasting along on a string of five straight knockout victories since coming to the United States.

Harry Stickevens is in charge of the training camp and personally manages Micelli, Young and Anthony.

Stickevens reports that the fighters workout every afternoon and that the public is invited to attend the various drills.

Current plans call for the training camp now in operation to be set up as a permanent fixture.

Turner Slight Favorite Over Castellani Tonight

Cleveland, (AP) — "Rocky" Castellani and Gil Turner, each hoping to earn a crack at Middleweight Champion "Bobo" Olson, meet tonight in a scheduled 10-round televised bout at Cleveland News' 28th annual Toy Shop Fund boxing show. Willie Troy of Washington, D. C., and Tuzo Portuquez of Costa Rica will go into a 10-rounder in the 160-pound class as a co-feature.

Although Castellani is considered the number two middleweight contender, Turner is a slight favorite in the betting odds. He is the number four contender. Britisher Randy Turpin, who last recently to Olson, is the number one contender.

Weight Trouble

The 27-year-old Castellani, now fighting out of Cleveland, has been having a little trouble with his weight. His contract calls for him to weigh in today at 157 pounds and he found after sparring eight rounds last week that he was right at that weight.

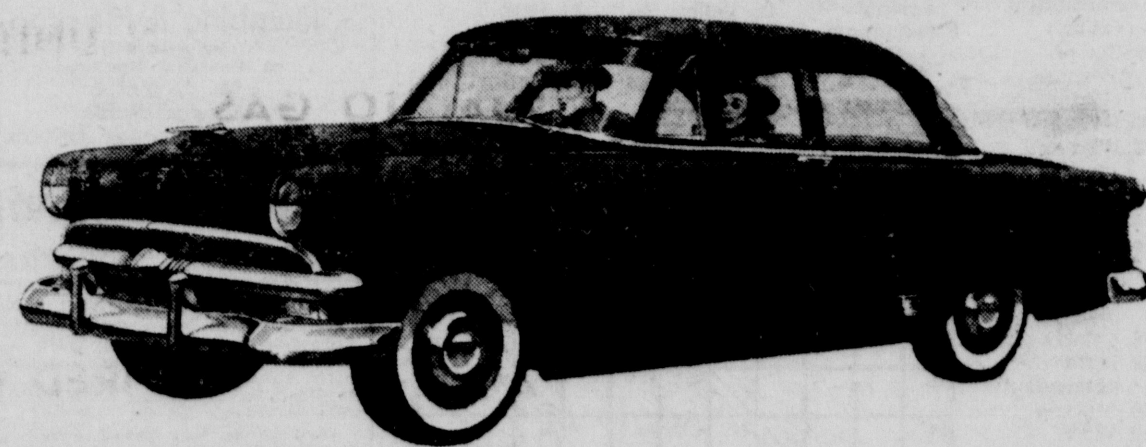

He has an overall record of 46 victories, five defeats and two draws, and is 7-1 so far this year.

Turner, a 23-year-old Philadelphia, goes into tonight's fray with a 1953 record of eight triumphs and one defeat. He has an overall record of 41-3.

The bout tonight will be carried over the Columbia Broadcasting System television network at 10 p. m., (EST).
